"Yet are we the men that must pull the ropes, weigh up the anchors, toil in the night, endure the storms,
sweat at the helm, watch the tide,
attend the compass, guard the ordinance, keep the night hours, and be ready for all impositions."

When Woodrow Wilson placed Louis D. Brandeis on the United States Supreme Court pious folks held up their hands in holy horror—
he was a radical! And William H.
Taft carried only Utah and Vermont because he was a conservative; yet here is the radical Brandeis standing squarely on the Bill of Rights, and the conservative Chief Justice writing an opinion which makes the Great United States Government a wire-tapper. The conservative of today is the radical of tomorrow.

A man's home is his castle unless he has a bootlegger and a telephone.

To what a sad state has our once proud American Navy sunk when Joepifaceous Daniels can mock it for its inadequacy!

It may shock Secretary Mellon to learn that as a matter of fact Chief Clerk Birgefield is the big butter and egg man of the Treasury.

A special grand jury has been convened in Chicago to ascertain the relationship between crime and politics—it is rumored that they are father and son, but they look so much alike nobody can tell which is which.

Vice President Dawes will spend the convention period at Marietta, which has a lightning rod said to be in just as good order as it was in 1924.

The little town of Brule expects that the President's vacation there will make it as world-famous as—say—the town where he spent his vacation in the Adirondacks a couple of years ago. That name is as familiar to you now, of course, as London.

That yarn about the totally imaginary Al Smith campaign fund turns out to be nothing more substantial than one of William Sulzer's famous flights of oratory. "Same old Bill!"

Bring the old steam roller, boys, we'll sing a little song,
And flatten out the delegates as we roll along,
Sing it as Frank Hitchcock sang it,
Fifty thousand strong,
When he was marching through Georgia.

The famous old Taft steam roller with Hoover at the throttle flattens out Chairman William M. Butler as it grinds its way through Florida.
Maybe Mr. Butler isn't against Hoover—maybe it's just because a Boston man had to be true to Bean.

Now that the prohibition agent is granted by the Supreme Court the right to tap wires and listen in on telephone conversations, no intimacies of the home are safe, every rattle of the family skeleton will be heard by greedy ears, and the secrets of husband and wife, of brother and sister, of friends, of business associates, will be drunk in by the invisible spy that will sit on every living room table in the land. Uncle Sam goes into the snooping business wholesale.

The Australian fliers in a safe hop
from Honolulu to the Fiji Islands—3,138 miles—establish a new world record in making the longest flight over water, with Brisbane less than 1,700 miles away. It looks as though man has added to his achievements the conquest of the vast Pacific, and made of Americans and their Anglo-Saxon brethren in the Antipodes near neighbors, a fact of transcendent political importance which doubtless the years to come will increasingly emphasize. Ha!
"Also we will make promises. So long as the blood endures,
I shall know that your good is mine;
ye shall feel that my strength is yours."

Pershing's Memorial Day address in France sounded the true keynote of the Coolidge Administration—the striving for peace among men—and the mention of the General's name
by the delegates and leaders arriving at Kansas City is not the least significance of the pre-convention happennings. Buddy! why try for second place when you may have the first?

HOOVER WINS ALL 9 FLORIDA DELEGATES IN CONTEST RULING

First Credentials Fight Results in a Victory for Secretary.

SEATS OF 60 OTHERS YET TO BE AWARDED

Commerce Head Also Given 2 Kentucky Seats; But- ler Votes for Him.

Kansas City, Mo., June 4 (A.P.).— Bowling over opposition without a setback, Herbert Hoover picked up eleven votes in the Republican convention today as the national committee, sitting as a jury, got down to the hearing of contests involving nearly 70 delegates from Southern States.

Not only did the committee place on the temporary convention roll all of the nine Hoover pledged delegates from Florida and two from Kentucky whose credentials had been challenged,
but it paved the way for de-throning George W. Bryan, national committee man for sixteen years and the Federal patronage "boss" in Florida.

Beau, who led a losing State fight for an unexpired state of delegates, intends to appeal to the convention credentials committee. In the past, it rarely has overruled the decisions of the national committee, and for this reason there is confidence in the Hoover camp that today's rulings would stand.

To Select Own Committeeman.

As the Florida delegation will select their new national committeeman, it appeared certain tonight that, barring a reversal, Beau would lose his post, and that Glen B. Skipper, of Miami, who led the fight against him and who himself landed a place as a district delegate pledged to Hoover, would take over the party reins in the State.

Setting out to referee before the end of the week all of the factional disputes, which as usual have cropped up in the South, the national committee first took up those from Florida, postponing for a day or two judgment in the important controversies centering around the entire delegations from Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. In each of these three States, one set of contestees has been lined up for Hoover, with the opposition states classed generally as pro-Lowden or pro-Dawes.

The Florida disputes aired and decided today involved all of the delegation from that State except the lone convention representative from the third district. The other contest disposed of during the day which had attracted less attention, affected the two convention seats from the first Kentucky district.

Another Hoover Victory.

Here again Hoover scored a victory.
The delegates instructed for him were recognized, giving him a solid delegation of 29 from the Blue Grass State.
No one appeared to press the claims of two rival states, and the Hoover pair obtained a quick decision, without a committee roll call.

In the votes on the Florida contests, taken behind closed doors, Chairman Butler, the former Massachusetts senator and close friend of President Coolidge, was the deciding vote.

ATTORNEY IS SLAIN BY FORMER CLIENT

Baltimorean, It Is Said, Be- lieved Victim Charged Excessive Fee.

Baltimore, June 4 (A.P.).—Clifton S.
Brown, member of a Baltimore law firm, was shot fatally today as he approached his office by a man who had waited for him in the corridor of the office building. The slayer, seized by police who heard the shots, collapsed at the police station before his name had been obtained.

Brown died in an ambulance on his way to a hospital. Five shots struck him as he staggered toward the door of his office. A statement by Mrs. Brown expressed the belief that a client who he held a grudge for several years over what he thought was an excessive fee did the shooting. Besides his widow, Brown is survived by three children.

When he recovered sufficiently to identify himself, the slayer gave his name as Louis Berman, a shoe manufacturer.

Brown, it was said, represented Berman in the settlement of his father's estate. Berman changed lawyers, refusing to pay Brown's fee, which he regarded as excessive. The attorney's suit for the amount of his claim was recently upheld by the Court of Appeals.

WIRE TAPPING TO SOLVE CRIMES CONSTITUTIONAL

Highest Court Upholds Acts of Federal Agents in Big Prohibition Case.

FOUR JUSTICES DISSENT

(Associated Press.)

Evidence obtained by tapping telephone wires and listening to conversations can legally be used in criminal prosecutions, the Supreme Court by a 5 to 4 decision held yesterday in three cases from the State of Washington, involving the conviction of Roy Olmstead and a number of others in one of the most gigantic prohibition violations ever unearthed.

The minority of the court, consisting of Justices Holmes, Brandeis, Butler and Stone, scathingly denounced the conclusions of the majority, declaring that telephone messages should be clothed with the same sanctity against Government "snooping" that the court had attached to letters.

Pointing out that the evidence disclosed "a conspiracy of amazing magnitude," in which two seagoing vessels brought intoxicating liquor from Scotland to British Columbia, a fleet of swift boats landed it on the Washington State coast and liquor stored in a large underground cache near Seattle, and in a number of smaller ones in the city, with a monthly business reaching $176,000, Chief Justice Taft, speaking for the majority, declared that the controversy could be reduced to the single question whether wire-tapping violated the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution.

That amendment he described as directed "against the use of governmental force to search a man's house,
his person, his papers and his effects."

Coed, Self-Poisoned Over Love, Is Dead

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—Poison taken three weeks ago because her parents objected to her marriage until she finished her studies, tonight caused the death of Miss Helen Owens, 23-year-old co-ed at the University of Chicago.

Miss Owens underwent several blood transfusions while doctors endeavored to save her life, fellow students giving her blood for her. When she died, her parents, Prof. and Mrs. F. W. Owens, of State College of Pennsylvania, were at her bedside. Miss Owens' fiancé was John Meyers, whom she met while they were attending Cornell University.

U. S. Treasury Is Rocked By "Great Butter Scandal"

Officials, Including President, Buy 8,000 Pounds a Week at Cost, Resulting in $1,500 Fund, Which Leads to Quizzes by McCarl and Mills.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

This is the story of the "great butter scandal," which is causing as much agitation among the army of Treasury Department employees as the Welch pale bill. The White House has not yet taken sides, although it is involuntarily the center of about $2.50 a week to the President is personally interested to the extent of 25 cents a week.

But Comptroller General McCarl has withdrawn his squads from the butter pool and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has done the same. Anonymous letters have found their way to Undersecretary of the Treasury Willis and the business of the Ohio butter firm that is concerned has dropped almost 5,000 pounds a week.

BISHOP GUERRY SHOT BY RETIRED PASTOR WHO KILLS HIMSELF

South Carolina Prelate's Assailant Thought Insane.

RECOVERY OF VICTIM BELIEVED DOUBTFUL

Discussion of Retirement Age Precedes Tragedy in Church Office.

Charleston, S. C., June 4 (A.P.).—The Right Rev. Dr. William A. Guerry, Bishop of the South Carolina Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church, shot today by the Rev. J. H. Woodward, 66, retired clergyman, of South Carolina, is unconscious in a hospital here and his recovery is doubtful. He was wounded in the left chest and an operation was performed late today for removal of the bullet.

The Rev. Mr. Woodward, described as a man of "fixed ideas and nervous temperament," killed himself after shooting the bishop in the latter's private office at diocesan headquarters.
Unless Bishop Guerry regains consciousness the immediate events leading to the shooting may never be known, but Woodward was believed by the bishop to be insane. That is thought to be the explanation of the entire tragedy.

Discussed Retirement Age.

Before the shooting and suicide it is believed there was a discussion of the retirement age of clergymen and some talk of finances, Woodward telling Miss Henrietta P. Jervey, private secretary to the bishop, that he wished to see the prelate about the retirement age of ministers. A check for $80, made out to Woodward and signed by Bishop Guerry, was found in the room
after the shooting.

That Bishop Guerry had an intimation of what might happen was shown by his remark to Miss Jervey when Woodward went into the bishop's private office: "This man is crazy and no telling what will happen."

A few minutes later Miss Jervey heard two shots and when she entered the room where the men were she found both on the floor. Woodward held a smoking pistol in his hand.

Twenty Years in Diocese.

Woodward was for twenty years a minister in the South Carolina diocese.
He was known as a man with fixed opinions, on the negro question in particular. In 1918, when Bishop Guerry sought a suffragan bishop for work among the negroes of the diocese, the minister made a number of public attacks.

Jumper in 193d Leap Forgets Parachute

Blair, Neb., June 4 (A.P.).—Albert McPhee, professional parachute jumper, has made his 193d leap from a plane and his last. He fell 2,000 feet to his death yesterday, his parachute harness properly attached, but the parachute itself left dangling from the wing of the plane.

Pierce Allen, pilot of the plane, said
the harness and parachute had been carefully fastened on before the takeoff. How McPhee came to leap without the "chute was inexplicable to him or authorities, who planned an investigation.

Ohio firm made a contract at the Treasury by which butter would be served at cost. As to just what this meant may be seen from the fact that this butter was delivered last week with the added cost, at 48 cents, while its equivalent grade in Washington sold at between 60 and 65 cents.

Such a producer to the consumer movement was bound to find favor among the Treasury employees. Every week the butter was shipped direct to a central head in the Treasury, who, without any pay, apportioned it out to the Treasury households and husbands who had placed their orders. As the business grew monitors were named by several of the departments to take the load off the central agent, and for years everything worked nicely and this Ohio butter played no small part in keeping up the high morale of the Treasury Department.

Just when the White House got onto
it is not known, but it was coincident with the Coolidge administration. So every week there was an order of 200 or 250 pounds for the White House in general and 25 pounds or so for the President and his immediate family.

Mr. Birgefield is said by the aggrieved consumers to have been unfriendly to the butter business from the start.
About a year ago, when he had been

FLIERS LAND AT SUVA IN FIJI ISLES AFTER RECORD TRIP OVER WATER; GIRL TO START ATLANTIC HOP TODAY

Miss Earhart Is Ready to Die in Attempt, Her Note Says.

FLIES, WITH STULTZ, TO TREPASSEY, N. F.

Trepassey, N. F., June 4 (A.P.).—
With a promise of fair weather and a good wind, an American girl and two veteran airmen plan to hop off tomorrow in this year's first attempt at a transatlantic airplane flight to Europe.

Tonight there was every indication that sunrise would bring another day
as perfect as an aviator could wish.
Amelia Earhart, who hopes to be the first woman to make the crossing, waited impatiently while Wilmer Stultz,
her pilot, and Lew Gordon, mechanic, went ahead with preparations for taking aboard 700 gallons of fuel for the long flight in the monoplane Friendship.

A message from her mother, who had not known of the girl's intention to fly the Atlantic until the plane left Boston yesterday, was waiting for Miss Earhart when the ship floated down on the bay here this morning.

Left Boston Unheeded.

The three had slipped out of Boston yesterday, unheeded, in their trimotored Fokker monoplane, fitted with pontoon. Fog encountered near Hal-fax forced them to spend the night
here but this morning they continued their way and in about four and a half hours reached this bay, the mark
they will toe for their great endeavor.
In a note she left behind, Miss Earhart had said, "If I succeed, all will be well. If I don't I shall be happy to pop off in the midst of such an adventure." Her slowness of build was accentuated by the light-fitting brown knicker and high laced boots she wore when she stepped from the plane here this afternoon. Her close cut, light hair was tousled by the wind, for she wore no hat.

On at First Opportunity.

The fliers themselves have said little about their plans, other than that they expected to take the first favorable moment for their start for the other side and that they will land in any convenient port in England, with Southampton as the most probable.
Wilmer Stultz, who was the first pilot of the late Mrs. Frances W. Grayson, who is known as an expert with heavy planes, is also his own navigator and radio operator.

Each of his companions, he said, was qualified to relieve him at the stick brief intervals necessary for observation or communication.

Three Motors and Pontoon.

George Palmer Putnam, New York publisher, represents the Mechanical Science Corporation, which is backing the endeavor. The plane was purchased from Commander Richard E.
Byrd, and Putnam said that aviator's extensive experience had been drawn on to the limit to make the venture as safe and scientific as human knowledge permits.

Beside the fact that the Friendship is the first plane to make the transatlantic crossing, it is also the first

BELGIAN FLIERS STAY IN AIR OVER 60 HOURS

Crooj and Broenen Shatter World's Record for Sus- tained Flight.

Brussels, June 4 (A.P.).—A new world record for sustained flight was established this evening when the Belgian fliers, Adjutant Louis Crooj and Sergeant Victor Broenen landed at Tirlemont after being in the air 30 hours and 8 minutes.

The Belgians' mark beats the record of 53 hours and 35 minutes held by the Americans, Haldeman and Stinson, and 58 hours and 37 minutes established only last week by the Italians, Ferrarin and Delprete. It was believed here, however, that the Belgian record could be regarded only as semi-official inasmuch as the petrol tanks were replenished during the flight.

Constantinople, June 4 (A.P.).—Capt.
Arrachart, noted French long-distance flier, and his companion, Maj. Rignot, of the French army, who hopped off from Le Bourget for India yesterday morning in an effort to establish a long-distance record, were forced down at Constantinople today by unfavorable weather.

Miss United States Chosen 'at Galveston'

Galveston, Tex., June 4 (A.P.).—Miss Ella Van Hueson, of Chicago, tonight was chosen as the most beautiful of 32 girls from various parts of the United States entered in the third annual international pageant of pulchritude here and given the title "Beauty Queen of the United States."

Miss Van Hueson will compete tomorrow night with the ten foreign entrants in the pageant for the title of "Miss Universe."

McCARL PAY RAISE RULES BRING JOY AND SADNESS

Two Promotion Jumps Given in Low Grades; Only One in Upper Classes.

BROOKHART PLAN LOSES

All doubt concerning the administration of the Welch act was removed yesterday when Comptroller General McCarl issued instructions as to how the salary raises provided in the act are to be applied.

The McCarl decision was greeted with joy by some 35,000 of the lower-paid Government employees, but there were about 10,000 who read it with keen disappointment.

The decision means that the employees near the bottom of the various grades will get two promotional jumps, while the one in the middle and those from the middle to the top will get only one.

In most grades, this means that employees at the bottom of the grade will receive a $120 raise, while those at the top will receive only a $60 raise.

Most of these latter employees feel sure that they would be moved ahead
two salary steps-up with the exception of the employee at the top of the grade, who, it was realized, could only move ahead one. Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, who had much to do with the enactment of the bill, was convinced that it would work out that way.

Comptroller General McCarl evidently had to rule against this method in order to keep within the average salary provision that now is carried in the appropriation acts.

Two important features in McCarl's regulations had to do with the time the raises are to become effective and with the so-called split grades in the act.

He ruled that employees are to receive their increases beginning July 15, and that the deficiency thus caused in the appropriation is to be made up at the next session of Congress.

McCarl's decision with regard to the split grades was regarded as a blow to the Personnel Classification Board. The board planned to allocate the employees in these split grades. McCarl's decision blocked this.

Long Live Germany, Cry in Paris Streets

Paris, June 4 (A.P.).—Shouts of "Vive L'Allemagne"—long live Germany—were heard in the streets of Paris for the first time in more than fourteen years today when Gustav Hartmann, Berlin's oldest hack driver, drove through the gates of the city for a visit after a slow but steady trip
all the way from the German capital.

Waving his white top hat at the crowd, Hartmann, who is almost 69, was escorted through the gates along the boulevards by a score of the few remaining hack drivers in this motorized city. The procession was followed by a band of students from the Latin quarter.

NOTE TO LITHUANIA HELD WAR THREAT BY POLAND

Naming of Vilna as Former's Capital Is Unfriendly Act, Says Zaleski.

GERMANY IS DENOUNCED

(Special Cable Dispatch.)
Berlin, June 4.—Poland has sent Lithuania a grave note which the press and public opinion tonight interpret as an open threat of war unless the League of Nations finds a solution to the conflict at its June session now under way.

Polish Foreign Minister Zaleski's concluding phrase in the note warns Lithuania that Poland considers the publication of amendments to the Lithuanian constitution declaring Vilna
a capital constitutes an unfriendly act and may have most serious consequences.

"I must also draw your attention to the fact that Poland's obligation to respect the integrity of Lithuania's territory imposes on Lithuania the obligation to respect Polish territory," he said. "Lithuania under such circumstances has no right to mention Vilna, which is Polish territory."

Opinion in Warsaw tonight is much excited and denounces Germany, who is accused of aiding Premier Walde-maras of Lithuania to irritate Poland.

Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, of Poland, who is in a bellicose mood, also sent a sharp note to Russia today. Poland expresses regret at the attempt to murder the Russian trade commissioner at Warsaw, but energetically rejects the Russian accusations that the Polish government is screening Russian refugees who are plotting terrorism against Soviet officials. The note closes with Poland categorically protesting against unfriendly comment in the Soviet Russian press and its attacks on Marshal Pilsudski.

$8,498,935 IN LIENS AGAINST BLACKMER; INDICTMENT TALKED

Grand Jury Is Summoned at Denver at Same Time Civil Action Is Taken.

MANY BANKS NOTIFIED OF GOVERNMENT CLAIM

Attempt to Extradite Oil Man From France in Continental Case Is Rumored.

Denver, June 4 (A.P.).—Income taxes, interest and penalties aggregating $8,498,935.78 were today assessed against Henry M. Blackmer, wealthy Denver oil operator, self-exiled in France, and at the same time the Government took steps construed as looking toward his prosecution.

Almost simultaneous with the filing of tax liens against Blackmer and the service of writs of attachment against his property in Denver and New York City, a special grand jury was called here, presumably to consider his indictment.

Liens Filed in Two Cities.

Federal authorities filed liens in the Denver Federal court and in the office of the Denver County clerk, totaling $8,498,935.78, against the assets of Blackmer, filed in the New York Federal Court and recorder's office amounted to $6,422,455.62.

The tax liens filed in Denver consisted of $1,045,000 in taxes, $835,000 penalty and $6,422,455.78 interest. It is understood the taxes and penalties are for the years 1916 and 1917, and 1919 to 1923 inclusive. Failure to pay taxes from 1916 to 1923 inclusive is alleged in the liens filed against Blackmer in New York.

Writs of attachment against any property held by or for Blackmer were filed today with 22 companies or individuals, including all financial institutions in which Blackmer is believed to have accounts. In New York City they were also served upon banks with which he did business.

No official announcement was forthcoming from authorities that the Blackmer case would be considered by the grand jury, but the summoning of that body at the same time the liens were being filed was taken to indicate that the Government would attempt to indict Blackmer and cause his extradition to Denver.

Only a part of the tax, interest and penalties assessed against the oil man was understood to be for his alleged profits in the Continental Trading Co., an adjunct of the celebrated Teapot Dome case.

Director of Midwest Concern.

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—Notice of liens because of tax claims, interest and penalties, totaling $8,498,935.78, against Henry M. Blackmer, who went into voluntary exile abroad to escape paying income taxes, was filed today by Hugh McQuillan, chief of the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Service.

Liens against a. holders of securities in Blackmer's name, warning that the Government has an enforceable claim for unpaid taxes, and the liens forwarded to 22 financial institutions in which the fugitive oil magnate was believed to have accounts.

Blackmer is alleged to have failed to pay income taxes from 1916 to 1923. Until three months ago Blackmer was a director of the Midwest Refining Co. He went to Europe toward the end of 1923 and repeated efforts have been made since to bring him back for testimony in various phases of the Teapot Dome litigation. For almost a year he has been a man without a country, following upon the revocation of his passport in June, 1927.

Treasury officials began an examination of his tax returns June 24, 1927. He was fined $100,000 in connection with the oil scandal, and after litigation lasting until March 31, 1928, the courts upheld the seizure of $100,000 of his property. His name figured prominently in testimony concerning the Continental Trading Co. before the Senate committee.

The amount which the Government is attempting to collect consists of $3,236,336 in alleged unpaid taxes and the remainder, almost half, of penalties and interest. The Federal income tax law provides for an assessment of as much as 50 per cent in case of a default in tax payments and interest at the rate of 1 per cent monthly.

National Cathedral Girls Hold Flag Day Exercises

Picturesque Services at Mount St. Alban Schools; Boys Are Awarded Scholarships and Prizes; Bishop Quinn Will Speak Today.

Graduation exercises of the National Cathedral School for girls will be held today, following flag day exercises which were held yesterday in Whitby Hall.

The Rev. Dr. Barney Phillips delivered the principal address yesterday. His daughter is a member of the graduating class. The Right Rev. James E. Freeman also spoke.

Miss Eleanor Derby Quinn, daughter of the Right Rev. Clinton Simon Quinn, bishop coadjutor of Texas, was awarded a flag floated over the school the past year.

The Thomas Hyde prize was given to Miss Margaret Caldwell, of Washington, a junior at the school. Because of the inclement weather, the flag day exercises were held in Whitby Hall instead of around the flag pole as usual. The procession of the students being dressed in white, while the seniors carried staffs adorned with huge bouquets of yellow and purple flowers, colors of the school, and the juniors carried baskets of red and white peonies.

Miss Jessie MacDonald, principal of the school, announced that students who had made the honor roll both in the upper and lower forms.

Forty-eight seniors, representing 20 States and one foreign country, will receive their diplomas today at the exercises in Bethlehem Chapel at 10:30 a. m. Bishop Quinn will deliver the address. Four of the graduates, Miss Elinor C. Blackburn, Miss Faith Phillips, Miss Maimie Stee, daughter of the Minister of China, and Miss Frances W. Fisher, Robert G. Barrow, Jr., and Samuel Herrick, Jr.

The prize speaking contest, award of prizes and final chapel of the year of St. Alban's School, the National Cathedral school for boys, was held in the Lane Johnston Building yesterday morning.

The chapel service was conducted by the Rev. James Henderson, chaplain of the school.

Among the students who participated in the prize speaking contest, presided over by William H. Church, headmaster of St. Alban's School, were Cecil A. Beasley, Jr.; W. T. Dennis, Adrian S. Fisher, Robert G. Barrow, Jr., and Samuel Herrick, Jr.

The trophy cup for baseball excellence in the lower school went to the Yankee Team.

The Charles C. Glover mathematics medal was given to Horace Willey, and the Charles C. Glover English medal went to Robert G. Barrow.

The Satterlee medal, regarded as the highest award in St. Alban's School, was given to the graduates, Miss Elinor C. Blackburn, Miss Faith Phillips, Miss Maimie Stee, daughter of the Minister of China, and Miss Frances W. Fisher, Robert G. Barrow, Jr., and Samuel Herrick, Jr.

The Thomas Wise medal for the best all-round boy was given to William G. Gallinger, Jr., and the Walden Meyer medal for excellence in foreign languages fell to Tyler Kent.

The prize offered by the Sisters of the Epiphany for courtesy was awarded to Raymond Caster, and James D. Hobbs, Jr., won the prize as the chimes ringer.

In the contest between the Whites and the Blues, the two sides of the school membership, the Blues, captained by Judson W. Bowles, made the most number of points for the year and were declared victorious.

The trophy cup for basketball excellence in the lower school went to the Yankee Team.

JOSEPHUS DANIELS HIS BROTHER FACES FOR PEACE FAILURE

Orator at American University Commencement Sees Mars Still Dominant.

DIPLOMAS AND PRIZES AWARDED LARGE CLASS

Wilson Navy Secretary Holds United States Now Poor Second in Warships.

Taking both Republican and Democratic parties to task for indifference to the "supreme concern of mankind—peace," Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, in a commencement address at American University yesterday, made an appeal for the "holy ideals of Woodrow Wilson and Elihu Root."

The speaker reviewed with open criticism the record of both parties on the League of Nations, the world court, conferences for reduction of naval armaments, and the League of Nations.

"What will the two parties promise this year?"

"Neither party can point with pride to a single thing that has been accomplished to substitute arbitration and understanding for war," he said. "The Democrats will pass the buck to the Republicans and attempt an alibi for lack of power. The Republicans can truly reply that if the Democrats had shown as much zeal for the world court as they expended on reducing taxes on corporations and on the tariff, the world might have been a different place."

BISHOP L. B. WILSON DIES AT HOME IN BALTIMORE

Bishop Luther Barton Wilson, formerly a Washington pastor and reformer, died last night at his Baltimore home, the victim of heart attack with which he has been afflicted since he was 40 years old.

His official address, the reading of the bishop's address, on behalf of the board of bishops of the church, after the announcement of his death, was made by the Rev. John McManus, Bishop of Baltimore, where he had been critically ill since. He was 72 years old.

Bishop Wilson, who held many high offices in the church, was at one time the pastor of St. Wesley Church, Baltimore, and was elected bishop of the Baltimore diocese in 1901, succeeding Bishop John McManus.

He was elected president of the Antislavery League in 1901, succeeding Bishop John McManus.

Bishop Wilson was born November 14, 1856, was educated in Baltimore private schools and later studied medicine at Johns Hopkins University. He practiced for one year and entered the ministry.

He was elected bishop at the general conference of the Episcopal Church in 1901, succeeding Bishop John McManus.

GOVERNMENT NOT WILL CLOSE IN STEWART CASE TODAY

Oil Magnate Himself to Be First Witness for Defense in Contempt Trial.

PETITION FOR WRIT FILED

The Government practically wound up its case yesterday against Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, who is on trial in the District of Columbia Supreme Court for refusal to answer questions put by a committee concerning disposition of Liberty bonds owned by the Continental Trading Co.

After expected that shortly after court reconvenes today that District Attorney Leo A. Rover will rest the case on behalf of the Government. He said after adjournment yesterday that he probably would not call any additional witnesses and indicated that unless something unexpected should develop that he would give way to the defense today.

Frank J. Hogan, chief of defense counsel, said that the Government would head the list of the defense witness group. After the oil man has concluded he proposes to introduce some documentary evidence, Hogan had nothing further to say last night as to the defense plans except that it was doubtful if any members of the Senate committee would be called, at least today.

Virtually all of yesterday's time was taken up by Rover and Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkshaw reading into the record the petition filed by Stewart for a writ of habeas corpus after he had been taken into custody by Senate officers following his refusal to answer questions early in February. The petition was taken into custody by Senate officers following his refusal to answer questions early in February.

SULZER DENIES TALE OF HUGE WAR CHEST FOR SMITH AGENTS

Tells Senate Investigators His "Hypothetical" Story Was Misinterpreted.

SPURNED PRESIDENCY, NEW YORKER ASSERTS

Primary Expenses in West Virginia Again Scrutinized by Committee.

(Associated Press.) The Senate campaign funds investigating committee drew another blank yesterday when it was told by former Gov. William Sulzer of New York that he had no personal knowledge whatever of expenditures in the race for the presidential nomination for Gov. Smith or any other candidate.

"I was seeking information as to how candidates get delegates," Sulzer said. "So I told him I knew I was once nominated for President and refused because I didn't want the bother."

"I certainly told Miller it required money to get delegates, which is a sad commentary on our political methods," Sulzer said. "I told him I knew I was once nominated for President and refused because I didn't want the bother."

"Politicians Then and Now." No," Sulzer replied, adding that he had spoken merely from his lack of political experience including "eighteen years' service in the House of Representatives."

"In my judgment politicians are more adept now than they were in my day," he went on. "They are so adept that they suck the eggs under the shells."

"I have not asked into this campaign and don't know that I shall. That's a bridge to cross when I come to it."

A moment later Sulzer was excused, and said, with a gentle wave of the hand:

"In the words of the late Champ Clark, 'Glorie be and what ho?'"

"Another bubble burst," Senator Barkley commented.

Before Sulzer was called, the committee went in minute detail into Hoover's expenditures in the West Virginia primary fight with Harry C. Woodward, State manager, recalled to say that the contributions, including some $100,000 from the headquarters sources, was $22,532 and that all of this was either expended or obligated. It might cost an additional $1,000 to clean up the bill, he added.

A. C. Herrell, Reed manager in West Virginia, estimated his expenditures at $10,000 which went into trying to clear up complications involving Reed delegates on the long ballot. There were no contributions and Herrell kept no accounts.

West Virginia Expenses. Charles W. Oserton, Democratic national committee chairman for West Virginia, who said he personally had sought Gov. Smith to enter the primary race, but had been told that Smith would "not turn over his hand" to obtain delegates, said he had spent personally around $2,000 in organizing for Smith and that county groups had spent about $20 a county in some cases to get lists of Smith delegates printed. He also said he knew of no outside contributions.

Oserton said he believed that there had been heavy expenditures by dry organizations.

FORMER GOVERNOR TESTIFIED

organizations like the Antislavery League to beat Smith, but he had no specific information. Later, however, the committee called Edward B. Dunford, counsel of $60,000 for the organization of the league, who said an appeal for $25,000 had resulted to date in collections of more than $20,000 to be used in furthering "dry" interests in the campaign.

Circulation of Gov. Smith's record on prohibition and also the record of Senator Reed of Missouri in West Virginia had been under auspices of the State organization of the league, he added, no work having been done as to Republican leading candidates, all of whom were understood to be dry. National organization outlays were placed at $2,000 to date, chiefly in anti-Smith literature based on his prohibition record, Dunford said.

Editor Refutes Heelin.
Another West Virginia witness, Clyde B. Johnson, who said he ran for "anti-Smith delegate at large," told the committee he had urged Senator Reed to campaign in the State because the Missouri had let it be known he was concerned that the Democratic party should not nominate "a Tammany man" but not because of his own ambition to be President, Johnson could furnish no details of expenditure, however, beyond his own outlay of $100 to hire a hall in which Senator Reed spoke.

That brought the committee to Lowell Mellett, editor of the Washington Daily News, one of the suggested sources of information furnished by Senator Heelin of Alabama, because the paper published a life of Gov. Smith. Mellett testified, however, that instead of being paid to run it, the Scripps-Howard papers had paid over his life of Smith and a life of Hoover. He said that these papers would support Hoover if nominated, even against Smith.

Sulzer's appearance also grew out of Heelin's session with the committee. Miller's name and the tale of a $25,000 payment for Western delegates having been furnished by the Alabama senator, Sulzer said he could only explain the detailed story of the Sulzer-Miller train conversation told the committee by Miller on the ground of utter misunderstanding.

"I was not trying to mislead Miller," Sulzer said. "I was trying to tell him Sulzer said, 'The hypothetical illustration I gave was based on knowledge acquired when I was active in politics.'"

"Mr. Miller said an interesting talker and I'm somewhat of a conversationalist."

CANDIDATES' DRIVES ARE ON EARNEST AT CONVENTION CITY

Watson Is First Aspirant to Appear Personally; Buck on Hand for Lowden.

Kansas City, June 4 (A.P.)—Stirred by the few days remaining before the Republican national convention begins, candidates for a presidential nomination, leaders espousing the candidacies of those who look to the White House groundwork for the perilous turns ahead.

It seemed still too early for most of the politicians to talk about possibilities concretely but at the various headquarters of candidates conference after conference was the order of the day and on most every hotel lobby the chances of Hoover's advancement were discussed with always a reference to the many little things that can happen at the last moment to upset the best laid plans.

The first presidential candidate to arrive in Kansas City to personally conduct his campaign for the nomination was Senator Watson, of Indiana, who lost in setting up headquarters in the President Hotel and in welcoming friends to talk over the situation. With the senator were M. Bert Turnham, his campaign manager, and Eliza Rogers, Indiana State chairman.

Buck There to Aid Lowden. Another early comer was Clarence F. Buck, manager for the Lowden campaign, bringing a message to the effect that Mr. Lowden's campaign was not an "anything" movement, as it was in no way based on antagonism to any interest.

"The Lowden movement, which has gained headway everywhere," he said, "is not in favor of any interest as against any other. It is not anti-Coolidge nor anti-administration. Mr. Lowden's strength is national, representative to the business interests of the East as well as the agricultural section of the west."

As if to prove the statement that the Illinois governor is not "anti-Coolidge," there was displayed in Lowden headquarters a large portrait of President Coolidge, holding equal rank with a picture of Mr. Lowden's on an opposite wall.

Hoover Men Optimistic. At Hoover headquarters everyone exuded optimism. The tentative gathering of eleven delegates at the contest hearing of the national committee today gave James W. Good, the Hoover manager, and other boosters of the Commerce Secretary a great deal of satisfaction. There still was the expectation of a group of delegates to be named on the basis of the one of the early ballots.

On the other hand, there was much talk of dark horse possibilities, especially of the dark horse winning out. The group of delegates to be named on the basis of the one of the early ballots.

The "Bloody Twentieth" had a call for police, and detectives said they found Harry Hockstein carrying a gun. Hockstein and a companion were loaded into the patrol.

"You can't lock me up; I'm a precinct captain and a personal body guard," Hockstein said. He said, but the police took him anyway.

$500,000 HAS SPENT BY NEW JERSEY SENATE CANDIDATES

Kean and Frelinghuysen Tell Reed Committee of Contributing $50,000 Each.

(Associated Press.) Hamilton F. Kean and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, two of the candidates in the recent vice-cornered New Jersey Republican senatorial contest, each put up $50,000 for his campaign and each confined expenditures on his behalf within a few dollars of that sum, the Reed campaign funds committee was told yesterday at the outset of the inquiry into the New Jersey primary.

John Scott, clerk of Essex County and manager for Kean, who won the primary, testified that Mr. Kean gave him $50,000 in two $25,000 installments and that expenditures of the campaign were $49,366.33.

B. Duncan McClave, of Cliffside, manager for Mr. Frelinghuysen, who ran third, said Frelinghuysen likewise put up $50,000 entirely from his own purse, and with all bills paid the expenditures totaled $48,744.87.

Mr. Kean was the only one of the five candidates to appear, and he firmly insisted that expenditures of his campaign were confined to the $50,000 fund. He knew of no contributions by any one else nor did he know of any expenditures on his behalf by other organizations.

Stokes on Stand Today. Edward C. Stokes, former governor and runner-up in the primary, who charged excessive expenditures by candidates during the primary fight, will appear today. Mr. Frelinghuysen is on a fishing trip and was excused until next week.

While Mr. Frelinghuysen recently refused to participate in a harmony meeting, his manager, Mr. McClave, today refused to make any statement against other candidates and their expenditures. He said he traveled about the State during the campaign with Frelinghuysen, but that he had seen nothing in the way of expenditures which aroused his suspicions.

Kean recalled the charge that he had paid $200,000 to Enock Johnson, treasurer of Atlantic County, and he denied this along with all other charges made against him. Johnson, who supported Kean in the home county of Senator Reed (Republican), New Jersey, a backer of Stokes, said he was and is an Edge man nevertheless. He also said he had not received a penny in connection with the recent primary fight.

Senator Reed (Democrat), Missouri, chairman of the special committee created two years ago to look into senatorial campaign expenditures, took charge at the outset, but after questioning of Kean he turned the inquiry over to Senators McGary (Republican), Oregon, and King (Democrat), Utah.

The committee was directed to look into the New Jersey primary by vote of the Senate. Reed had called attention to the demands of Stokes that the candidates publish their campaign expenditures.

Kean, who is also Republican national committee chairman for New Jersey, said he had the backing of those of the county organizations and that his manager sent most of these money from the $50,000, but he had every cent of information as to how it was spent.

He declared his expenditures were confined to the period from last January when he began to become a candidate after receiving the endorsement of the county organization. He said he had no money left over from the expenses of some of the many meetings which he attended and addressed, but that he had declined because of the expense.

Senator Reed said it was "generally understood that you are comfortably fixed financially. You are a wealthy man. You are a member of the Senate. You are a member of the House. BOMBING OF CHANG STIRS CHINESE RE: JAPANESE BLAMED

Mukden Warlord's Injuries From Train Outrage Unknown at Peking.

U. S. ASKED TO RECALL ITS MILITARY FORCES

Dr. Wu, Here as Agent of the Nationalists, Will Request Recognition.

Peking, China, June 4 (A.P.)—An unconfirmed report from Mukden states that Wu Chun-Sheng, the governor of Heilunkiang province, who was wounded when a bomb was hurled this morning at the train of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, has succumbed to his injuries. The condition of Mo Teh-Hui, who was secretary of agriculture and commerce in the Peking cabinet, was reported as serious.

No word has come as to the exact extent of the injuries of Marshal Chang. The former dictator was cut on the head when the bombing occurred, but later was taken to his residence. A number of his bodyguard of gendarmes were killed and two cars of his special train were destroyed. Wu and Mo were in the car next to that of the former dictator of Peking.

Mukden dispatches from Japanese sources say that rumors have been spread among the Chinese in the Manchurian capital blaming the Japanese for the outrage. Feeling against subjects of Tokyo is running high and many of the leading Japanese residents have taken refuge with the troops of their nation. One Japanese boy was stabbed by a Chinese and seriously wounded.

Japanese Kill Two Natives.

A Japanese military report asserts that two alleged agents of the south China Nationalist government, clad in civilian clothing, were shot dead Sunday evening by Japanese sentries. They refused to halt for examination near the scene of the Monday morning bombing. The withdrawal of Chang Tso-Lin's Manchurian troops overlaid with some resistance by the Nationalist allies. Today there was a withdrawal of the Shansi Nationalist troops and the retreating northerners between Luliho and the Hankow Pass.

It was stated that the Nanking Nationalist government had instructed the commander of the Shansi forces now before Peking not to agree to allow the northern troops to withdraw without molestation, but to press on immediately after Yang Yu-Ting, chief of staff for Chang Tso-Lin, who is still in the field.

U. S. Asked to Retire.

Shanghai, June 4 (A.P.)—The Nanking Nationalist government has asked the United States to withdraw its troops from North China.

In answering the American note of May 18, regarding protection of American property and lives in North China, the Chinese version of the Nanking reply, issued today, stated the Nationalists intended to use only well-disciplined troops in Peking and Tientsin, "thus assisting in the protection of Americans."

The reply concluded by asking the withdrawal of the American troops, "in order to improve the traditionally friendly relations between the two countries."

The note was handed to Edwin S. Cunningham, consul general in Shanghai.

The Nanking government, press dispatches from that city state, has appointed Field Marshal Yen Hsi-Shan, garrison commander of the Peking-Tientsin area.

Called Model Governor.

Yen Hsi-Shan, better known as the "model governor," became military governor of Shansi in 1911, after joining the revolutionists. He had been instructed to proceed with the reconstruction work in this area on the same plans as characterized his administration in Shansi. He is at present at Pao-tungfu, in command of the Shansi forces.

Canton, China, June 4 (A.P.)—Four hundred Communists were killed and 400 captured in Linghsin, on the island of Hainan, on May 30 in a clash with government troops, said advices reaching Canton today.

Hostilities between the government troops and the Communists have been sporadic in recent months, and the troops attacked the Communists after purposely permitting them to enter the city.

Wu Likely to Be Envoy Here.

Dr. C. C. Wu, official representative of the Nationalist Party of China, expects to receive instructions to approach the State Department as plenipotentiary spokesman for the whole of China and to request recognition of the new government by the United States, in accordance with Secretary Kellogg's definition of the American attitude toward China. These instructions would be based upon the fall of Peking before the Nationalist armies.

It is understood.

Dr. Wu's position was made clear during an interview yesterday, when he emphasized the point that, with Peking captured, the last obstacle to American recognition of the Nationalist government will have been brushed aside, and the Nationalists will be in fact, as well as in appearance, the real rulers of China. The fall of Peking, Dr. Wu believes, should result in instructions being forwarded to him to stress the position that the Nationalists are ready to negotiate with the United States in accordance with the statement of Secretary Kellogg on January 26, 1927. On that occasion, the Secretary of State declared the readiness of his government to negotiate with any government of China or delegates who could speak for China as a whole.

CECIL KERN, ACTRESS, FOUND DEAD IN ROOM

Door Opened After "Do Not Disturb" Sign Hangs Three Days.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, June 4.—Miss Cecil Kern, well-known Broadway actress, who appeared in "The Gringo," "Icebound," "The Gracie Snatchers" and many other recent productions, was found dead in her room in the Fifth Avenue Hotel today under mysterious circumstances.

Miss Kern had become somewhat of a recluse lately and had ordered a "do not disturb" sign hung on her door three days ago. The sign had been heeded, but today the hotel manager had her door opened.

The woman, a tall, good looking blond, about 40 years old, was found dead, fully dressed and wrapped in a silk comforter. Hemorrhage of the lungs was given as the cause of her death. An autopsy will be performed.

Kidnaped Prisoner Found Dead in River

Boonville, Mo., June 4 (A.P.)—The body of Cecil Williams, negro, kidnaped from officers early Wednesday as he was being taken to jail as Marshal from Slater, where he had killed Romeo Logan, another negro, was found in the Missouri river here yesterday.

Williams had been handcuffed and his feet bound. There were no indications that he had been slain before being thrown into the river and it was believed he was drowned by his captors, a group of twelve armed and masked men whom officers said were negroes.

Radio Corporation Denies Sale Reports

New York, June 4 (A.P.)—A denial by David Sarnoff, vice president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, that the concern was negotiating with the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. for the sale of its communications business was issued at the office of the corporation today.

Sarnoff, who is in London, said reports of an impending purchase by the telephone company, as published in New York newspapers of Saturday, were absolutely without foundation. He said that no negotiations whatever were pending for the corporation's communications business.

WOMEN'S RADIUM SUITS SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Each of 5 Will Receive the Equivalent of $50,000 From Corporation.

FIRM TO PAY ALL COSTS

Special to The Washington Post.

Newark, N. J., June 4.—The radium suits filed by five young New Jersey women, whose doctors say they have been doomed to early death, were settled out of court early this afternoon.

Under the settlement, arranged by Federal Judge Clark, each will receive what would approximate $50,000 in a jury award. Papers in the matter were to be formally signed by attorneys for the women and officials of the United States Radium Corporation.

The successful arbitration of the suits was announced by the corporation at a conference in Judge Clark's chambers. He had volunteered to act as referee after the case had been fought on many technicalities in the Jersey courts of equity.

Each woman will receive $10,000 in cash from the corporation. Each will receive an annuity of $500 for her lifetime and hospital bills will be paid for the rest of their lives. For past medical expenses each will be paid $2,000. The corporation also will meet counsel fees and court expenses.

Raymond H. Berry, the attorney who worked to get the women a legal hearing, is to receive $3,000 for his services.

The young women originally sought permission to sue the company for $250,000 each. They worked in the plant in 1919 and 1920 and had been told that they incurably poisoned themselves by placing brushes in their mouths which were laden with a radium paint for luminous watch dials.

TRAINMEN OUST LEE, PRESIDENT 19 YEARS

A. F. Whitney Elected; Former Executive Is Secretary and Treasurer.

Cleveland, June 4 (A.P.)—William G. Lee, for nineteen years president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, today was defeated for reelection by A. F. Whitney, secretary-treasurer of the organization, but was retained in the organization by being elected to succeed Whitney, during balloting for officers at the triennial convention of the brotherhood in session here.

Whitney, who started railroad work as a brakeman on the Chicago & North-western, defeated Lee by 24 votes. The vote was, Whitney, 488; Lee, 462. Lee defeated W. G. Anderson, of Kansas City, for secretary, 508 to 444.

Election of officers is for a three-year term.

Other officers elected were J. A. Farquharson, Long Beach, Calif., assistant to the president; William N. Oak, Washington, editor of the Railroad Trainman and legislative representative; G. W. Anderson, Kansas City, first vice president and W. J. Babe, Port Arthur, Ontario, second vice president.

Many Amateurs Pick Up Repeated Messages in Italian and English.

SHIP MAY BE IN TOUCH WITH STRANDED ITALIA

Russians to Search Franz Josef Land; Flier Heads North From Spitzbergen.

Stockholm, Sweden, June 4 (A.P.)—Radio messages in English and Italian, repeated frequently, were heard at midnight tonight by amateurs at Gaevle, Upsala, Sjaerum, and Trelleborg. The messages said: "Italia Nobile S O S Kingsbay East." The message finished with "Radio Bordeaux."

It is inferred that unless a hoax was being perpetrated, the dirigible Italia, lost in the Arctic since May 25, was trying to inform the world that it was able to hear Bordeaux.

Another Message Received.

London, June 4 (A.P.)—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen says that the radio station at Remse, near Hernosand, Sweden, at 4:30 p. m. today heard the following message in French: "Dirigible Italia: We have received information you are on Island Franz Josef."

The station it was believed that the message was sent by some Russian ship which either was attempting to relay Russian messages to the Italia or which possibly may have got in communication with the missing dirigible.

It was suggested that if the Italia was down on the ice, her radio operator might be sending with the accumulator batteries, being able thus to give only weak signals which could be picked up only by a ship that happened to be within range.

An amateur at Malmorga Sweden, tonight at 11 o'clock received a message from a Russian amateur asserting that he had heard signals from the Italia but that communication was interrupted.

Russians to Search Archipelago.

Moscow, Russia, June 4 (A.P.)—Russian preparations for an expedition to seek the missing dirigible Italia took a turn today as the Russian relief commission decided to send searchers by ship and airplane to Franz Josef Land, a desolate archipelago east of Spitzbergen.

The decision to survey Franz Josef Land grew out of the receipt of a message by the relief commission from a radio amateur at Vostok, in Dvinsk province, bordering Archangel, that he had picked up what appeared to be an appeal for help directly from the Italia.

The message, as transmitted to the relief commission, was as follows: "Italia Nobile Franz Josef S O S. S O S. S O S. 200 S. Terri Teno Ehn."

(No explanation was given of the last three words of the message, which may have been garbled in receipt.)

Wave Length Same as Italia's.

The radio amateur said he received the message on a 32.55 wave corresponding to that of the Italia.

While there was no further message to support belief that this may have been the Italia broadcasting directly, the commission was convinced of the possibility that Gen. Nobile had come down at Franz Josef Land, since all wind conditions at the time of the Italia's disappearance ten days ago would support the theory that the dirigible easily might have been blown toward the uninhabited archipelago.

Flier Sails for North.

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 4 (A.P.)—The sealing vessel Hobby, which arrived here today with Lieut. Luetzow Holm, Norwegian aviator, sailed for the north this evening. Lieut. Holm; his observer, Mechanic Myre, and the seaplane were aboard the Hobby.

The weather is improving, but Lieut. Holm said a continuation of the north-west wind would press ice floes toward the north coast of the archipelago and make flying conditions difficult. He intends, however, to search all available ground for traces of Gen. Umberto Nobile and the crew of the dirigible Italia.

Capt. Riser-Larsen, who is following Lieut. Holm on another steamer and bringing another plane, will try north from here. The lieutenant hopes the captain will join him so that they may coordinate their efforts. Capt. Riser-Larsen is due here Thursday.

The Hobby must return here within ten days at the latest, as the vessel is under charter to take an American hunting party, organized by a Mrs. Boyd, to Franz Josef Land. If Gen. Nobile and his men are not found by that time the Norwegian aviators will transfer their headquarters to the ice-breaker Braganza.

Hobby Has No Radio.

The Hobby carries no radio, and unless she can find the Braganza, the result of Lieut. Holm's efforts will not be known until the Hobby returns.

Watchers at Kings Bay were cheered today by word that the ice had broken in Hinlopen Strait. The Italia was headed toward that region when disaster overtook her on May 25, and considerable hope is based on the possibility of a savior in the strait, particularly on the bleak coast of Northeast Land.

Lieut. Holm plans to drop provisions and traveling directions to the Nobile party if he sees any of them alive. The provisions will be boxes of pemmican.

He will also drop pemmican for any of the parties of Alpinists he may encounter.

The Alpinist, who headed for Mokedi Bay in the Braganza, has not arrived there, although the estimated time for their trip has expired. Yet there is no anxiety concerning them as the route which they were to travel was known to be difficult and likely to require more time than their schedule called for.

BLACKLISTING PATRIOTS HIT AT WOMEN'S SESSION

Are Obstacles in Way of Modern Democracy, Club Federation Told.

DRY METHODS SLURRED

San Antonio, Tex., June 4 (A.P.).— Scoffers and "blacklisting patriots" are the chief obstacles in the way of those who are trying to make the machinery of democracy serve modern conditions.
Dr. Max Handman, eminent economist and sociologist of the University of Texas, told the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs here today.

Dr. Handman said the chief trouble arises over the fact that people fail to distinguish between the democratic way of life and the machinery by which democracy functions.

The pioneers, he said, found their system of government bad and changed it.
Their descendants, however, out of mistaken loyalty to their ancestors, fail to do the very thing their ancestors did—change the machinery of their government when it is worn out.

Attacks upon the Department of Justice and prohibition enforcement were made by Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunnham, candidate for the Senate from Texas.

"The enforcement of the prohibition law has been made such a show of corruption and inefficiency as to make you weep with indignation and laugh with scorn in the same breath," she said.

"The great Department of Justice at Washington, our Federal Government's arm for serving the people in the enforcement of Federal laws, has been so shot through with corruption in recent years that it will take a generation on the straight and narrow path to restore to the public the reverence and respect which is due this department," she declared.

tacks on him through public statements and speeches.

While serving as pastor of a church at Bluffton, S. C., he shot a negro burglar. He was exonerated following the killing, residents said, but never fully recovered from the nervous shock.

After his difficulty with the bishop over the negro bishop question the minister was retired, but retained a canonical connection with the diocese.
A short time ago he was a supply pastor at St. Mark's Church at Brunswick, Ga. His family is said to live at Darien, Ga.

Bishop Guerry was born in Clarendon
County, South Carolina, in 1861.
He was ordained a deacon in 1889 and a priest a year later. After serving pastorates at Florence, Marion and Darlington, S. C., he became professor of homiletics and pastoral theology at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., leaving the school in 1907 to become bishop coadjutor of South Carolina. A year later he became bishop.
Bishop Guerry was a graduate of the University of the South. He married Anne McBee of Lincoln, N. C., in 1889.

Second Day Log of Fiji Flight

(Associated Press.)

12:25 a. m. (7:55 a. m. Pacific Coast time)—Now flying 1,000 feet altitude. Going good.

12:45 a. m. (8:15 a. m. Pacific Coast time)—Mackay Radio received message giving midnight position of Southern Cross as latitude 2.00 south, longitude 170.33 west. Speed, 78 knots. This would place ship near Phoenix Islands, 1,866 miles from Honolulu.

12:15 a. m. Fanning Island time (3:15 a. m. Pacific Coast time)—
Southern Cross radiated the monoplane had dropped down to 1,000 feet altitude. "All well."

3:55 a. m. Pacific Coast time—Mackay Radio & Telegraph Co. at San Francisco picked up report from steamer Sonoma that Southern Cross had passed overhead at 3 a. m. Pacific time. Plane flying at 1,400 feet in vicinity of Phoenix Islands. Sonoma reported air rough, weather fair.
1:00 a. m. Fanning Island time (4:00 a. m. Pacific Coast time)—Rain.
Position, latitude 3 south, longitude 171 west. Now over Phoenix group.
"All well."

3:20 a. m. Fanning Island time (6:20 a. m. Pacific Coast time)— Southern Cross radiated: "Doing fine. Been expecting slight land, but none yet. It's not so clear as one would like. Altitude, 1,000. Speed, 80 knots."

4 a. m. (7:30 a. m. Pacific Coast time)—"Latitude, 7.8 south; longitude, 174 west; 800 miles to Suva. Bad weather."

9:10 a. m. Pacific Coast time—"Hello, Samoa! How are you getting us?"
9:30 a. m. Pacific Coast time—"Having poor flying conditions now.
Weather changeable. Been dodging rain clouds and flying in circles some times."

9:50 a. m. Pacific Coast time—Flying circles, 8,500 feet altitude; 750 miles from Suva.

11:10 a. m. Pacific Coast time—"Almost a head wind now. Noise terrific, don't try to send me at all. Go ahead for five minutes on 740 meters. Please get bearings now."

12:15 p. m. Pacific Coast time—"To westward of course. Approximate position now due north of Suva about 500 miles."

1:15 p. m. Pacific Coast time—"May be able to make Suva, yet doubtful." Reported fuel sufficient for five hours flight; 500 miles north of Suva.

2 p. m. Pacific Coast time—450 miles north of Suva; combating head winds. Seven hours gasoline. Four and a half hours to Suva.

3:40 p. m. Pacific Coast time—Approximately 150 miles north of Suva.
Speed 60 knots.

4 p. m. Pacific Coast time—Southern Cross sights Fiji Islands.
6:23 p. m. Pacific Coast time—Southern Cross arrives Suva Fiji.

FLIERS REACH SUVA AFTER RECORD HOP

opened her heart in welcome. That was on Friday. A day of rest for men and preparation of plane, and Saturday night the Southern Cross was at the Barking Sands runway on Kauai Island, ready for the crucial test of men and machine.

With the coming of the dawn Sunday the Southern Cross lifted its seven tons from the sands and roared away to the South Seas, courage that was sublime directing its course.

Fight Tropical Storm.

Honolulu, June 4 (A.P.).—Beet by tropical storm conditions and with the gasoline supply running low, Capt.
Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions in the monoplane Southern Cross were threatened with possible failure today in their attempt to reach Suva, in the Fiji Islands, the goal of the second hop of their flight from California to Australia.

Reaching Suva, 500 miles from Suva, the Southern Cross sent out a message. "May be able to make Suva, yet doubtful."

The fuel tanks still held sufficient gasoline to continue in the air for from five to seven hours. A message picked up by the naval radio station at Pago Pago, Samoa, indicated. Unless the fliers had miscalculated their fuel reserve a desperate race for land was certain with the possibility that the plane might be forced down in the trackless waters of the South Pacific.

North and West of Course.

"We are now due north and to the westward of our course," the Southern Cross radiated. "Our approximate position is north of Suva. Only about five hours of gasoline left. (Later a message from the naval radio station at Pago Pago, Samoa, said a check-showed seven hours supply of gasoline). Our speed is 75 knots. May be able to make Suva, but doubtful."

The disheartening message was sent out by the Southern Cross at 12:45
p. m. Pacific coast time. 28 hours and 56 minutes after the plane took off from Hawaii yesterday and after it had covered approximately 2,600 miles.
This exceeded by more than 200 miles
the distance negotiated from Oakland to Honolulu on the first hop of the projected 7,778-mile journey to Sydney, Australia.

Adverse winds set in to hamper the progress of the Southern Cross at 11:10 a. m., the fliers reporting "almost a headwind now."

Rear Admiral Henry W. Lyon, U. S.
N., retired, father of Harry W. Lyon, member of the crew of the Southern Cross, now flying to the Fiji Islands from Hawaii on a California-Australia flight, called at Anacostia Naval Air Station yesterday and asked for word concerning progress of the flight.

No word had been received at the station. Admiral Lyon's home is Paris Hill, Maine. He is now visiting in this city. He is 83 years old.

Offers Full Cooperation for Realizing General Treaty Renouncing War.

(Associated Press.)
Australia, ninth of the eleven nations invited to join with the United States in the negotiations of multilateral treaty for the renunciation of war, has replied by accepting Secretary Kellogg's invitation and offering its full cooperation.

The reply, dated June 2, was transmitted through the British foreign office and the American Embassy in London and made public here today. It said:

"His majesty's government in the commonwealth of Australia has received with appreciation the invitation to participate as an original party in the treaty for the renunciation of war which has been proposed by the Government of the United States of America. His majesty's government in the commonwealth of Australia have carefully and sympathetically examined the draft treaty submitted to them, together with the correspondence that has so far been exchanged between the interested governments. They believe that a treaty such as that proposed would be a further material safeguard to the peace of the world and they will be happy to cooperate to the fullest extent in its successful conclusion."

MEXICO-WASHINGTON HOP PLANNED FOR THIS WEEK

Capt. Carranza Would Return Lindbergh's Gesture of National Goodwill.

Capt. Emilio Carranza, of the Mexican aviation service, who some weeks ago announced his intention of attempting a nonstop flight from Mexico City to Washington, plans to hop off for this city the last of this week, according to advices received last night
by the Mexican Embassy here.

The flight was originally planned as a gesture of friendship in acknowledgment of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's good will hop to the capital of the southern republic last December. Col.
Lindbergh made the 2,000-mile air journey in approximately 27 hours.

An exact date for the Mexico to Washington flight has not been fixed by the Mexican side, due to uncertain weather conditions, but it is known that all arrangements have been made for the take-off. Senor Don Luis Padilla-Nervo, second secretary of the Mexican Embassy, said last night that their dispatches had withheld all details of Carranza's plans.

The Mexican pilot will fly a Ryan monoplane of the same type as the "Spirit of St. Louis," used by Lindbergh in his Latin-American tour.
Carranza only recently piloted the plane alone from San Diego, Calif., to Mexico City. He covered the distance of 1,700 miles in about 18 hours.

Our Responsibility and Our Obligation

"The American Telephone and Telegraph Company accepts its responsibility for a nation-wide telephone service as a public trust. Its duty is to provide the American public with adequate, dependable and satisfactory telephone service at a reasonable cost."

WALTER S. GIFFORD,
President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company (Bell System)

q This expresses the policy which has guided the Bell System from its beginning. By a strict adherence to it there has been created a great, nation-wide system of communication which has placed every city, town and hamlet in the United States within reach of every other city, town and hamlet.

q Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor, more than fifty years ago when the telephone was in its infancy, made the prophecy that such a nation-wide system would some day become a reality. It has become a reality, because from the very beginning of the industry down to the present time the management has continuously worked with this objective ever in mind.

q The very nature of the telephone business necessitates a single interconnected system. It is, therefore, without competition in the usual sense. This in itself imposes an exceptional responsibility and obligation, amounting to a public trust. Speculative profits have had no place in its development. Always the management has had before it the ideal of rendering a service as nearly perfect as possible, at rates as low as would be consistent with financial safety—thus to encourage the most wide-spread use of the service throughout the nation.

q The result is that today the United States, with only 6 per cent of the population of the world, has 60 per cent of the world's telephones. And at no time in the history of the industry has greater progress been made in the development of the telephone art than is being made at the present time.

WASTE AND THE FRANK.

The limitations surrounding the use of the congressional frank have never been sharply drawn. Recent disclosures have emphasized the use to which it may be put. It has been shown that hundreds of thousands of speeches, or what passed for them, have been sent from Washington for campaign purposes at the expense of the taxpayers. The only statutory requirement is that the matter appear first in the Congressional Record. This is in itself no brake, for the rules governing that publication have been so loosely interpreted that it is possible to get anything, no matter how extraneous, within its columns. It is not necessary that the matter to be printed be a speech of a member. It may be, and often is, the utterance of some private individual, a letter or a magazine article.

That members of Congress wish to increase rather than limit the field of distribution under the frank is indicated by a proposal originating in the House that credits be allowed the members for Government publications which they do not use. As the rules now stand each member gets a certain number of copies of a selected Government publication. The result is that thousands of such documents pile up and are eventually destroyed. City members, for instance, seldom have any use for farm publications and country members can do nothing with advice intended for urban dwellers. The suggestion is that the members be credited for documents which they find unsuitable, and be allowed to obtain a corresponding number of some publication which will suit their constituencies.

The entire matter of congressional printing and the use of the frank needs investigation and regulation. A means for some such reform may be afforded through the protest which has been lodged with Congress by former Gov. O. B. Colquitt of Texas, one of the candidates for the Democratic senatorial nomination in that State. Three of his opponents are members of Congress and Gov. Colquitt charges that they have been exceedingly liberal in the use of the frank for campaign purposes. One Texas congressman, it is charged, recently had a speech printed in the Record as though he had delivered it on the floor while on the date in question he was actually in Dallas.

The taxpayers should not be called upon to share the costs of furthering the personal or political ambitions of members of Congress. No good reason exists why the flood of Government publications should inundate those who have not requested them. The expense of maintaining the Government Printing Office and the United States mails may be a minor item in relation to the whole cost of government, but when an almost absolute waste of money is involved no hesitancy should be shown in putting economies into practice.

MISS WILLS SUPREME.

Miss Helen Wills appears to have demonstrated in her first major tournament abroad this year her ability to take the place so long occupied by Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen. Her victory in the French championship was impressive. No one of the opponents gave the California girl a real contest. Critics are agreed that Miss Wills' game has improved considerably since she went to the Riviera and was defeated by the French girl.

The quality of the competition at Paris was high. There will be few better players at Wimbledon, so that Miss Wills is almost certain to win the title there. It is evident that the American girl is now the best amateur player in the world, and there is no rival in sight likely to challenge her supremacy for a good many years. It seems probable, indeed, that Miss Wills will dominate her field for an even longer period than Mlle. Lenglen did. No other woman has ever approached the game that these two are capable of when at their best. It would be interesting if they could be brought together again, now that Miss Wills' game has reached mature development.

TRAFFIC RIGHTS.

The animosity that exists between drivers of private and public vehicles in Washington is duplicated in many other cities. In every case it arises from the same fundamental cause—the fact that the driver of the public vehicle is inclined not to respect the rights of others. Yet because the situation is widespread constitutes no reason why steps should not be taken to clean it up in Washington. The time has arrived for drastic action.

The bill of indictment drawn by the public against bus and taxicab drivers contains such counts as usurpation of the middle of the thoroughfare, intimidation of private operators by the bulk of the public vehicles incessant and unwarranted horn tooting, excessive speeding and ignoring of traffic signs and warnings. Operators of private vehicles also offend frequently in these respects, it is true, but in the case of those operating public vehicles it seems to the public as though such driving has become a matter of policy. The conditions are bound to cause accidents in growing frequency unless immediate reform can be had. In addition to accidents, however, flagrant disregard of fundamental traffic rules is bound to affect adversely the even and expeditious flow of traffic. A general clean-up can be had only through two methods. Of primary importance, operators of bus and taxicab lines, in the realization that their continued prosperity depends to a considerable extent upon public favor, should instruct their drivers that the motoring public at all times must be accorded courtesy and consideration. In addition, members of the Police Department should be brought to realize individually that a taxicab or a bus is no more, in the eyes of the law, than any other vehicle and its driver is not entitled to privilege or preferential treatment.

ANOTHER TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT.

While a score of pilots here and abroad are tuning up planes for transatlantic hops, Wilmer Stultz, Lou Gordon and Miss Amelia Earhart have hopped off in the monoplane Friendship with England as their destination. A year ago all interest was centered upon the mere accomplishment of a transatlantic hop. Today the feat has been accomplished successfully several times, and interest now centers in safety. With several notable exceptions, the planes that will take flight on transatlantic ventures this year are multimotored, designed and equipped to prove that transoceanic flying no longer is a mere stunt venture. The project of Wilmer Stultz and his companions is no exception to this trend.

The plane they are using was constructed for Commander Byrd's antarctic flight. It was sold several weeks ago, however, to the Mechanical Science Corporation, of which George Palmer Putnam is the spokesman. A huge, trimotored Fokker, it is mounted on pontoons of new design instead of on wheels, and with it Wilmer Stultz has planned to fly across the Atlantic, with stops when necessary en route. Following his successful intercontinental flight of last summer Commander Byrd issued a statement to the effect that commercial flying across long water hops could prove practicable only with a multimotored plane, able to sustain itself upon less than its full motor power, equipped so that emergency landings could be made if necessary. The Friendship follows these specifications, and Commander Byrd characterizes this venture as "a sensible pioneering effort."

Already the Friendship has proved the value of pontoons. Flying northward, its crew encountered a heavy blanket of fog in the region of Halifax. Further flying would have proved extremely dangerous; so the ship was brought down in Halifax Harbor. Had the ship been unequipped with pontoons the flight probably could not have been thus broken, for landing fields suitable for large planes are not frequent in the area over which transatlantic flights must be routed. Because of its pontoon equipment the Friendship rarely will be out of reach of a landing place on the entire flight.

The chances are excellent that this venture will prove successful. Careful advance preparations have been made, and the ship is of a type suitable to long flights over water. The project serves to throw into sharp relief several other projected transatlantic flights, in which unsuitable single-motored land ships will be used for the sole purpose of obtaining personal publicity for the participants.

FIGHTING FATIGUE.

Science is now fracturing a favorite opinion, that leisure banishes fatigue. It is setting up the contention that fatigue as a mental state need not have any necessary relationship to labor. One can be "tired to death" who has done very little work. The fight against fatigue which is already on will doubtless witness radical alterations of viewpoints, and indeed such is already the case. Apathy and lassitude, ennui, depressions which sap energy, these are some of the parasites which may wait upon those who are overfed with leisure. They all contribute to that state called fatigue, concerning which much yet remains in the realm of the unknown even to the dervé specialist.

It is certain, however, that there is no intrinsic necessity for those to feel overborne by life who have had little of its physical labor to support. Those who are so afflicted, and most persons are to a degree at times, are pathetic subjects of the same neurosis which caused the scriptural poet to cry for the wings of the morning that he might fly away and be at rest. Aviation is supplying the wings, that is, ready and speedy facilities for radical change of environment, but the wings of the aeroplane do not infallibly promise rest.

The physical supports for rest and relaxation are more and more being supplied, but back of all that can be provided in recreational comfort and physical provisions for rest, lies the tuning of the nervous organization, whose gearing is now receiving the close of experts in fatigue relief. According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, there is almost always to be discovered an interrelation between the state of health and the sense of fatigue.

AUTO TAX SAVINGS.

Since the enactment of the tariff law of 1917, which was the first to place a tax upon automobiles and accessories, it is estimated that the buyers of cars have paid a total of $1,068,303,366 into the Federal Treasury.

The first relief from this great burden came with the passage of the tariff act of 1924, which cut the tax on tires, parts and accessories 50 per cent and exempted the lower-priced truck chassis from all taxation. The estimated reduction in taxation under this act was $25,000,000 annually. Two years later all taxes on accessories were repealed and the rate on passenger cars was reduced from 5 to 3 per cent. The estimated result of this act was the reduction of taxes on automobile owners by $72,000,000 during the fiscal year 1927.

During the session of Congress which has just ended, the Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the Automobile Dealers Association and the American Automobile Association worked hand in hand in an effort to have the remaining taxes on the industry repealed entirely. The administration was disposed to resist this movement because it was feared that the reduction in revenue would follow would drain the Treasury resources. But manufacturers, dealers and owners of cars were persistent and insisted in their demands for the repeal of the last of the special levies. The revenue bill of 1928, which was signed by the President on the last day of the session, repealed the last of these automobile taxes, and that the benefits would be passed on to the purchasers of new cars at once was made certain through an agreement in which all the manufacturers joined.

The American Automobile Association reports that the sale of new cars in Washington in 1927 totaled 17,900, which was 68 per cent of the number sold in the peak year, 1926, when dealers disposed of approximately 26,000 cars of all types. A mark beyond the record year may be set by the reductions the new revenue act has made possible.

LIMITS OF POPULATION.

Students of population are arriving at more or less definite conclusions with respect to the conditions which govern population movements that bear closely upon the policies of governments. It was a long span between the practice of importing labor into this country in the form of indentured servants and the labor contract law which put the bars down upon contract labor from abroad. It was another long span to the adoption of the present system of limiting upon a quota basis the number of immigrants allowed to come into the country. Each of these steps was marked by the claim of the American people themselves to first rights to the land and opportunities of their country. But back of all the barriers set up anywhere to the immigration tide have been working persistently the natural forces for readjustment of populations. Pent up in one direction, the population tide overflows in another. Sometimes this is accompanied by war; at other times it is effected peacefully.

In the last analysis, oceans and aridity have been the chief physical forces in the direction of the population movements of the past. Oceans are no longer a barrier to the tides of population; the areas of nonfertility of the soil still govern to a great extent. When man is able to make the desert blossom as the rose he will have done much to relieve the pressure of population upon those countries which can yield to that pressure only at the sacrifice of their standards of living.

The limits of population among the advanced peoples are set by the social demands of their populations, and so congestion is caused elsewhere, with conquest of less desirable areas. The human tide can not be permanently dammed; it will find outlet.

A GOOD IDEA.

Three teams in which Washington has particular interest are in the six that have been named to contest for the American lacrosse championship and the right to appear in exhibition Olympic games abroad. The contest between the leading twelve in the country was so finely drawn during the regular season that the selection committee had no alternative but to order a play-off. Maryland, Army and Navy make up one-half the selected field, and the thought naturally occurred to those in charge of arrangements that Washington should be the scene of some of the elimination games.

In the schedule that has been drawn both Army and Navy have been chosen to play on June 16. The cadets will meet the winner of the Hopkins-Mount Washington game to be played in Baltimore on Saturday. The Midshipmen will oppose the victor in the Maryland-Rutgers contest also scheduled for the Baltimore Stadium on the 9th. Provided that Maryland survives the earlier round there will be tremendous local interest in three of the four teams that are to play on the 16th.

Army, Navy and Maryland graduates have already been approached on the matter. The authorities at West Point have agreed to let the twelve come to the Capital. The service people living here and the hundreds interested in everything athletic at College Park would furnish the nucleus around which local enthusiasm could be created.

The plan to stage the games in Washington should be carried out, if for no other reason than to give this city an opportunity to judge lacrosse on its merits. The game has already gained a tremendous foothold in college circles. Mention was made only recently of the rivalry that has been created between lacrosse and baseball as a spring sport in the colleges. The game has established itself or is gaining a foothold both to the north and south of Washington. No better inauguration could be given the sport here than through the Olympic trials. The suggestion that the games be held here should not only be seconded, but steps taken to make certain that the plan is carried out.

SPATS ARE NEXT.

The whole diplomatic world awaits the outcome of the next session of the Council of the League of Nations, which will be held in Geneva this week. Correspondents who follow the actions of the council may be expected to file with the cable companies, in order to "hold the wire," either the Bible or an unabridged dictionary and "hang the expense," for he who first gives the world the details of the expected edict will score a beat on his associates which will make him famous.

Last winter, when Queen Wilhelmina of Holland gave a New Year's reception, a question of precedence arose. The judges of the World Court of International Justice insisted that they were entitled to bow to her majesty before certain members of the diplomatic corps representing comparatively insignificant countries were received by her royal highness. At the time the point was raised the ruler of the Netherlands was without the essential facts as to diplomatic usage in receiving judges of international courts. The lady thought to still the storm by receiving each of them separately, after greeting the members of the Corps Diplomatique. But this solution of the problem has proved unsatisfactory because at similar functions during the past six months the international judges have been given places which they deemed "incompatible with their official dignity." Hence the appeal of the jurists to the council.

It is gratifying to learn that an agreement has been reached which is reported to be acceptable to both parties to the controversy, and that the details of the agreement will be announced at the session of the council this week. Thus far the council of the league has not been called upon to decide the proper shade of the spats to be worn by diplomats who may appear before the court during the summer. That should be the next important question to be decided.

Heartless Injustice

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A BLACK man who had done no wrong worked under guard from early morning until night and slept on a hard cot behind bars. As compensation for his labor he received three unpalatable meals each day. His heart ached for liberty. He yearned for the sight of green fields, for the song of birds, for the feel of soft earth under his feet. At night he lay awake and thought of his friends and his own people, and wept. For thirteen years he was a slave in a cage. His friends died. The world he had known passed away. He was no longer remembered.

And then the woman whose charge had sent him to the penitentiary confessed that she had testified against him falsely.

The State of South Carolina had wronged one of her humble citizens. Now she said to him: "Ben Bess, it seems you are innocent. You may go now. Don't slam the door."

"Yes, sah, cap'm," said Ben; "thank you, sah."

And that closed the incident. Thirteen long, bitter, heart-breaking years of unjust slavery, and then a curt dismissal! A man broken and old, turned afraid without one cent of pay for thirteen years of labor.

Brutally unjust? Surely. But no more unjust than the treatment accorded all innocent men who are charged with wrong-doing and held by the state until their innocence is established.

When the state charges a citizen with crime and holds him in jail, or when it releases him on bail and yet causes him great expense, it has no right to deny him compensation when his innocence is proved.

Merely to admit itself in the wrong is not enough. A public apology from the bench would not be enough. The man thus wronged should be recompensed for every cent the state forced him to expend and for the earnings he lost while held in prison.

The abuse of power is tyranny. And robbery by the state is no less reprehensible than robbery by an individual.

The law rates of justice and itself practices the most heartless form of injustice.

Is it any wonder that the law is not respected when indifferent citizens tolerate a system that punishes the innocent and lets the guilty go free?

When he radio says "Whoeee!" in the midst of a political speech, you can't tell whether it's static or just a bored comment.

Only those who are qualified should cast the first stone, but that doctrine spoils the jury system.

All things are relative, and the accused seems to glow with conscious righteousness when he proves he was in jail at the time the crime was committed.

(C) right, 1928.

It's a Clinch.
Philadelphia Record: Jesse H. Jones is likely to be Texas' candidate at Houston. What if the Democratic ticket should be Smith and Jones, and all the Smiths and Joneses in this wide land should vote for them, out of family regard? Stranger things have happened.

Why Not?
Cincinnati Enquirer: The Soviets would like to get away from the name Russia. Why not call it the Confederation of Ruin?

HARD MONEY.
The increasing firmness in money rates during the current year, observes the New York World, has raised the question whether business may not now be facing a long period of tight money after its few years of ease. The prevailing firmness is clearly something more than a transient condition which often develops with the approach of end-of-the-month settlements. No tendency toward an easier condition has appeared this year. Gold has continued to leave the country, and borrowings from the Federal Reserve banks have increased. The stringency has finally brought 6½ per cent call money on the stock exchange.

There are evidences on every hand of hard money; the only question is its probable duration. Is the firmness of the "short-swing" or the "era" variety? That is a matter of great practical importance to bankers, business men and investors, for upon it depends the trend of security yields, commodity prices and business profits.

The weight of opinion in financial circles is that the recent hardening of money rates is temporary. Despite the outflow of nearly half a billion dollars in gold in recent months, the country still has considerably more than a billion in excess of its normal reserve requirements. Moreover, with its high rate of productivity, it is constantly adding to its supply of liquid capital. The more optimistic among the financial experts are even predicting a gradual decline in interest rates throughout the life of the present generation. If they are right, that is good news to those who have been investing their savings in high-grade securities. They can view the future with complacency.

CHINA GOES ON THE AIR.
Approximately 3,000 radio receiving sets, says the Peking Leader, now are in use in Peking and Tientsin, according to figures from the records of the bureau which was created to license the use of this equipment after the prohibition of the import of such material was withdrawn last spring. This figure does not include the sets which are in use without license—in the concessions in Tientsin, the legation quarter in Peking and in some private houses outside these areas.

To give these sets something to do, two broadcasting stations have been built, one in Tientsin and one here in Peking. So far, only Chinese theatrical performances have been broadcast from these stations—the work has been largely experimental. Now, however, plans for more elaborate programs are being discussed.

A series of talks on the elementary principles of sanitation and health will be put on the air, in Chinese. There will be also talks on business methods, farming and similar subjects. And some foreign music.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Heretofore Predicted.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am a Democrat, a veteran of the Confederate army, a native of Georgia, a citizen of Florida for, lo, these many years. I predict that William G. McAdoo will be the Democratic nominee, and that Charles E. Hughes will be the next President of the United States. Very respectfully submitted. I have never missed a guess since Gen. U. S. Grant was a nominee in 1868, and I don't think that I am wrong now.

Very truly yours,
JAMES O. ANDREWS, U. C. V.

Congressional Prospects.
To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Presidential nominations have taken up so much of the public mind that very little thought has been given to the pressing necessity of a reformation in the membership of the House and Senate. A full House and 33 members of the Senate are to be elected. Of the Senators 32 are to fill expiring terms March 3, next, and one Vice Col. Smith, of Illinois, who was refused a seat. Of the 32 retiring Senators 20 are Democrats, eleven Republicans, and one Farmer-Labor. The Republicans have more than a fair opportunity of capturing at least ten of the places now held by Democrats, and the one held by the Farmer-Labor member.

It is within the possibilities for the Republicans to elect in Arizona, Delaware, Maryland, New York, Washington, New Jersey, Michigan, Rhode Island, Wyoming, Utah, West Virginia, Missouri and Massachusetts. If Gov. Smith should be the Democratic nominee for President he may be able to carry the senatorial candidate to victory in New York and New Jersey. If Senator Reed should be the nominee he may be able to carry Missouri for himself and the Democratic Senator. If the Republicans hope to carry out the Coolidge policies they must capture several of the senatorial seats now held by the Democrats. The near-Republicans, or Progressives, as they call themselves, cannot be relied upon when it comes to a show down on any important question. It is Congress which enacts the laws, spends the taxpayers' money, and the control of both Houses of that branch of the government is necessary to a successful administration.

LEVIN J. HOBART.

Locust Plagues.
To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The coming visit of the seventeen-year locusts seem to be causing some anxiety among the fruit and vegetable growers. Even the scientists appear to be anxious over their coming. I can well recall the visit they paid to the Middle West in 1863. They proved to be more destructive than "army with banners." It was in the late spring, the corn was just beginning to show above the ground, and the winter wheat was showing its green color. When the locusts got through with it, the young corn was destroyed and scarcely a blade of wheat was left. Gardens were swept clean of all vegetation, and the grass on the pastures was cut as if by a lawn mower.

They attacked the trees in the forest, boring the bark so full of holes that thousands were killed. You could have ridden miles through the forest without seeing any green leaves. Their noise at night made life miserable to the brute and human creatures. The highways in the country were covered with their shells, while the dead could be swept up by the bushel. To make their visit more memorable it was followed by a long continued drought, and farmers failed to harvest any crop. The dry spell was so long continued, and the summer heat so terrible that on clay land the earth was baked to a depth of 6 feet in many places. The drought and the heat brought on a peculiar sickness of which hundreds died—in the little town in which I lived "so many" died that schoolboys had to volunteer to dig graves.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

The President and Mrs. Coolidge returned yesterday from their cruise down the river on the Mayflower. Mr. Dwight Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico, who has been a guest at the White House, left yesterday for his home in Englewood, N. J.

The British Ambassador, Sir Esmé Howard, will sail tomorrow on the Berengaria to join Lady Isabelle Howard in England. They will pass some time abroad.

The Ambassador of Mexico, Señor Don Manuel Tellez, was the guest in whose honor the Director General of the Pan-American Union entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Pan-American Annex. The other guests of honor included the Mexican delegates to the annual meeting of the American Library Association recently held in Indiana. Esperanza Velasquez Briggas, Señor Joaquín Méndez Rivas, Señor Rafael Heliodoro Valle, Señor Joaquín Díaz Mercado, Señor Rafael Aguilar y Santillán and Señor Tobias Chaves.

The guests invited to meet the delegates were: The Charge d'Affaires of Uruguay, Señor Dr. Hugo V. de Peña; the former chief justice of Uruguay, Señor Dr. Luis Pizarro; the United States Minister to Costa Rica and Mrs. Roy T. Davis, Señor Dr. Antonio Castro-Leal, counselor of the Mexican embassy; Mr. Arthur Bliss, chief of the Mexican division of the State Department; Mr. Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress; Dr. Frederick W. Ashley, president of the District of Columbia Library Association; Dr. James A. Robertson, managing editor of the Hispanic-American Historical Review; Dr. C. K. Jones of the Library of Congress; Dr. George T. Bowerman, Librarian of the Public Library; Miss Claribel R. Barnett, Librarian of the Department of Agriculture and vice president of the District of Columbia Library Association; Mr. John T. Vance, Jr., law librarian of Congress; Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, president of the George Washington University; Mr. George A. Finch, assistant secretary, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Dr. W. O. Carey, of Argentina, and the following officials of the Pan-American Union: Dr. Esteban Gil Borges, assistant director; Mr. Franklin Adams, counselor; Mr. William A. Held, trade adviser; Miss Isabel K. Macdermott, managing editor; Mr. William Mahoney, acting Librarian; Mrs. George D. Wait, in charge of the educational division; Dr. William Manger, chief of the division of finance; and Señor Don José Tercero, of Mexico.

The Ambassador of Italy and Nobil Donna Antonietta de Martino will go to the North Shore the middle of the month, where they will pass the summer.

Ambassador Davila Goes to Annapolis.
The Ambassador of Chile, Señor Don Carlos G. Davila, passed yesterday in Annapolis, where he went with the officers and midshipmen of the Chilean training ship.

The Chief Justice and Mrs. William Howard Taft will go today to Canada, where they will pass the summer at their home at Murray Bay.

The Minister of Egypt and Mme. Samy Pacha expect to go to California the end of the month for the summer. The Minister and Mme. Samy will be accompanied by about half of the staff of the legation.

The Minister of Portugal and Viscountess d'Alte will go to Bar Harbor the end of the week, where they have leased a house for the season.

The Minister of Finland, Mr. L. Astrom, will go to New York the middle of next week and will sail June 16 to pass the summer in Europe.

LEO ROVER'S TENURE IS REGARDED SECURE TO NEXT DECEMBER

U. S. Attorney's Friends Confident President Will Appoint Him Then.

HIS PRESENT SERVICE IS UNDER OLD STATUTE

James W. Proctor Candidate of Republican Leaders for the Post.

Leo A. Rover, who is now serving as United States Attorney here under an appointment by the justices of the District Supreme Court, probably will continue in that status until Congress meets again in December, according to indications yesterday.

When Congress comes back, and the President names a man for the office, friends of Rover are confident that he will be the man. The President is not expected to make a recess appointment.

Rover is United States attorney now
by virtue of a statute enacted in Cleveland's administration. President Cleveland had nominated Henry E. Davis for United States attorney, but the Senate refused to confirm him. Meantime the office remained vacant. Finally, Congress enacted a law permitting the justices of the court to appoint a man until the President saw fit to name somebody for the office.
When United States Attorney Peyton C. Gordon was appointed a justice of the District Supreme Court, he and the other justices promptly appointed Rover to the vacancy, to serve until such time as the President had made his choice. Rover at that time was Gordon's first assistant.

Proctor Also in Race.

Rover is one of two men whom the President has been thinking of appointing, the other being James W.
Proctor. The latter has the backing of the Republican leaders here.

At one time these leaders were virtually certain that they had won for Proctor, but something happened and the prediction that he would be nominated failed to materialize.

Meantime Rover has been strengthening his grip on the office. The fact that the justices appointed him was in itself looked upon as a strong endorsement, and according to courthouse attaches, he has more than lived up to their expectations.

Since he has been holding the office, Rover has handled a large number of cases, including one in New York involving millions of dollars of Government funds.

Warning Signs
It Will Pay You
To Heed

WE ARE entering upon a season when grade crossing accidents are most numerous. Increased motor travel means increased danger of accident from this source. In spite of warning signs and other precautions taken to safeguard the public, crossing accidents—most of them resulting fatally—occur far too frequently.

There is less excuse for accidents of this type than for any other kind. Motorists seem to prefer to take chances of losing their lives rather than lose a few minutes necessary to make certain that they can cross in safety. Some motorists will even run a risk when they can see a train approaching.

State highway departments, automobile clubs and civic organizations have placed signs along the main traveled highways to warn motorists of railroad crossings ahead in plenty of time to enable them to slow down and avert an accident. At every railroad crossing there is also a sign reading "Stop—Look—Listen." Train yourself to look for these warnings and heed them for your own safety as well as those for whom you are responsible

Through this Safety Campaign the Washington Business Concerns whose names appear below are cooperating for your welfare. Lend them your full support and have again taken an apartment at the Warman Park Hotel, where they made their home when stationed here previously.

An engagement of interest to Washington is that of Miss Victoria Frelinghuysen, daughter of former Senator and Mrs. Joseph Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, to Mr. J. Grenville Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Bates, of Morristown, N. J.

Miss A. R. Kerr-Sanders and Mrs. L. J. Helley, of London, are at the Mayflower while they are here for the convention of the Scrotopist Clubs. Miss Kerr-Sanders is president of the European Federation of Scrotopists and Mrs. Helley is chairman of the National Council of Great Britain. They will visit in Buffalo and the Adirondacks before returning home in July.

Mrs. R. M. Rogers and her daughters, Miss Louise de G. Rogers, and Miss Barkdale Rogers, whose home is in Greenwich, Conn., are spending some time at the Warman Park Hotel, having arrived by motor on Saturday.

Mrs. Brooke Goes To Rhode Island.
Mrs. Mark Brooke, who is passing a few days at the Mayflower, is on her way to open her house in Jamestown, R. I., where her husband, Col. Brooke, and their daughter, Miss Hattie Brooke, will join her for the summer. Mrs. Brooke's mother, Mrs. Francis M. Gunneil, will also be with them.

Dr. Mary Johnson started yesterday for Oklahoma City, where she will remain for some time before going to Los Angeles and Long Beach, Calif., for about two months.

Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Wehner, of Clarkburg, W. Va., who are in Washington for the graduation of their daughter, Miss Jean Wehner, and are staying at the Mayflower, were hosts at dinner last evening. Their guests, in addition to Mrs. F. R. Stahners, of Philadelphia, and Miss Marie Stack of New Rochelle, included members of Miss Wehner's graduating class from Trinity College, those present being Miss Helen White, of Passaic; Miss Arsula Armstrong, of Montclair, and Miss Lenore Kelly, of Scranton.

Among those who will soon open their summer cottages at Sherwood Forest, Md., are: Mr. Strickland Gillilan, Mr. Frank A. McNeely, Capt. J. C. Pryor, Mr. C. A. Robinson, Mr. E. A. Rule, Mr. Robert A. Rundle, Dr. E. Sherly, Mr. C. W. Tooke, Mr. R. E. Weir, Mr. Victor Whitlock, Dr. J. F. Barry, Dr. A. N. Baggis, Dr. J. M. Ladd, Dr. P. U. Mason, Dr. P. A. McFadden, Dr. S. Stewart Carpenter, Dr. Thomas R. Fitzgerald and Dr. Percy H. Moore.

Miss Helen Colbourn has returned from Pittsburgh, where she was the guest of her cousin, Miss Mary Hedburn Parson. Miss Colbourn gave recitals for the Women's Club of Ingram and also at Miss Parson's studio in Ingram, Pa.

Miss Elizabeth Peet has taken an apartment at the Grace Dodge Hotel. Miss C. S. Orth has also taken an apartment at the hotel.

Mrs. Frank Wilde, of London, is at the Grace Dodge Hotel.

Miss Pegg Wedded To Mr. Simmons.

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Pegg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Pegg, to Mr. Lorans Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Simmons, of Winfield, Iowa, took place Friday at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. W. A. Lambeth officiating.

The bride wore an ensemble of orchid satin crepe with a large hat to match. She carried a bouquet of gardenias.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Simmons left for Winfield, where they will visit the former's parents before returning to their home on Vermont avenue.

Mrs. Paul D. Rust and her daughter, Miss Helen S. Rust, of Boston, accompanied by Mrs. L. Stevenson, also of Boston, are at the Carlton.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. W. C. Short, of Fort Riley, Kans., are guests at the Powhatan.

Democratic Primary Call

Election of Delegates to National Convention; National Committeeman and National Committeewoman, and Members of Democratic Central Committee:

WHEREAS the call issued by an alleged Democratic Central Committee for the holding of a primary election in the District of Columbia for the election of Delegates to the National Convention; a National Committeeman and a National Committeewoman, and for Members of the Democratic Central Committee for the District of Columbia, was of no effect; in that the said alleged call failed to provide or give a proper opportunity to candidates to enter said primary; that the locations of polling places were not announced with legal due notice to the voters; that no opportunity was given to fill the Central Committee; that the assessment levied upon candidates to defray the expenses of the said alleged primary were exorbitant and unfair; that no place was announced where candidates could file their names, and no person was announced to whom payment could be made, and for other equally important reasons:

NOW, THEREFORE, the undersigned Committee, by virtue of authority vested in them by the Democrats of the District of Columbia in Mass Meeting assembled, and pursuant to the rules and regulations of the National Committee of the Democratic Party, do hereby issue a call for a Primary, the said Primary to be held on Thursday, June 14, 1928, between the hours of three (3) and eight (8) o'clock P. M., for the election of:

1—Delegates and Alternates to the Democratic National Convention to be held at Houston, Texas;

2—A Democratic National Committeeman and a Committeewoman;

3—Twenty-two members of the Democratic Central Committee of the District of Columbia, to be elected in their respective districts.

The names of the candidates for the above-mentioned offices must be filed with James J. Slattery, Secretary of Primary Committee, at Room 623, Barr Building, 910 17th Street Northwest, between I and K Streets, not later than six (6) o'clock P. M. Saturday, June 2, 1928. Declarations must be accompanied by cash or a certified check for the amount herein assessed against the office declared for. Checks must be drawn to the order of James F. Duhamel, Treasurer.

For the purpose of defraying the cost of this Primary, Candidates for the office of National Committeeman and National Committeewoman must deposit the sum of Seventy-five Dollars ($75.00). Candidates for the office of Delegate and Alternate to the National Convention must deposit the sum of Fifty Dollars ($50.00). No filing fee is required for members of the Democratic Central Committee.

Qualifications of voters: Any person being 21 years of age or over, a citizen of the United States, a resident of the District of Columbia for a period of one year prior to date of primary, and who does not vote in any other State. At the time of voting, all persons must pledge themselves to support the Democratic Nominee.

There shall be at least one polling place in each district, and in a large district several polling places shall be chosen. Polling places will be established not later than Tuesday, June 12, 1928, and will at that time be announced.

JAMES J. SLATTERY, Secretary.

JAMES F. DUHAMEL, Treasurer.

Jury Clears Driver In Automobile Death

A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Edward E. Ridgely, 22 years old, 1347 Massachusetts avenue northwest, of blame in the death of Edward Ash, 60 years old, who died Sunday at his home, 141 Eleventh street northeast. Ash had been struck by an automobile driven by Ridgely on May 24.

Ash had been treated at Casualty Hospital and declared recovering from his injuries. He was taken to his home, where he died. The coroner's jury declared the death to have been caused by an unavoidable accident.

Three Sue District For Street Levies

The District government was named defendant in three lawsuits filed yesterday in Circuit Court for the recovery of assessments alleged to have been unlawfully collected for street improvements.

The plaintiffs are G. Edward Altemus, manager of the estate of George C. Altemus, who seeks $1,635.32 as being assessed against Thirteenth street northwest property; William J. Hughes and Annie Hughes, who seek $1,160.32 as being assessed against Bladensburg road property, and Emma J. Walter, who seeks $1,017.08 as being assessed against Connecticut avenue property and their holdings at California and Twenty-third streets northwest. Attorneys Rhodes & Borchardt appeared for the plaintiffs.

WARWICK WILL EXPLAIN NEW COMPENSATION LAW

How It Affects Employees to Be Told Also by Others at Meeting June 13.

17 NEW TRADE MEMBERS

For the benefit of those desiring to know some of the finer points of the new workmen's compensation law, which goes into effect July 1, a meeting will be held at the United States Chamber of Commerce at 4 o'clock the afternoon of June 13, Robert J. Cottrell, executive secretary of the Board of Trade, announced yesterday afternoon.

W. W. Warwick, of the United States Employees' Compensation Commission, and others will explain the measure and tell the employers how it affects them. Cottrell said he understood the rates for compensation insurance would be from 50 to 60 per cent higher than those charged in Maryland or Virginia, but less than those existing in the State of New York.

Questionnaires are being sent out again to other cities to obtain data to be used in presenting figures to Congress supporting the contention of the board, that the District is carrying a higher tax burden than other cities of comparable size.

Seventeen applications for membership have been approved by the directors, they are John R. Clark, George Fenton Cramer, Joseph A. Dixon, Jr., H. C. Duffey, Aubrey B. Fennell, Wilbur L. Gray, Charles L. Grier, R. L. Koontz, William F. Leimberg, Raymond D. Lewis, V. A. Nichols, Junior Owens, George O. Schweinhaut, W. Allison Trotter, Don S. Warren, John J. Widmayer and Stanley L. Court Grants Order In Interborough Case

(Associated Press.)
New York city and the Transit Commission succeeded in the Supreme Court yesterday in their effort to obtain an order to bring up certain parts of the record in the statutory trial court to be considered in connection with their appeal in the Interborough case involving fares on the subways and elevated in New York city.

SUPREME COURT TO RULE ON BUSCH MURDER TODAY

Summer Recess Postponed to Permit Decision on Appeal of 3 Convicted.

HAVE APPLIED FOR WRIT

The petition of the three men convicted in the slaying of Policeman Leo W. K. Busch two years ago, for a review of their case, will be acted upon today by the United States Supreme Court, which yesterday postponed for one day its recess over the summer to act on the application for a writ of certiorari.

John Proctor, Nicholas Lee Eagles and Samuel Moreno, are in the District Jail, sentenced to be electrocuted Friday in connection with the shooting of the policeman.

The Supreme Court took a recess of half an hour yesterday and gave preliminary consideration to the case, but, at the conclusion of the recess, Chief Justice Taft announced that the court had been unable to review all the facts in the case within that time, and therefore would hold over its decision until today.

Prolongation of the session of the court until today is due largely to the desire of the justices to dispose of the Proctor, Eagles, Moreno appeal before adjourning for the summer. There are several other matters which will be taken up today, but they are largely matters of routine procedure which it is not believed would have kept the court in session for the extra day.

BEAUTY AND YOU

BY VIOLA PARIS

THE BEAUTY OF RADIANCE

If you should be given your choice between the radiance of perfect health and imperfect features or perfect features and imperfect health, which would you choose?

Few of us would hesitate, I think. We know that radiance—and the happiness, eagerness and zest of life that go with it—are, in these days, at least, far more attractive at home, socially or in business life than the most classic of features.

True radiance comes from within. Proper food and not too much of it, fresh air and regular exercise, natural elimination of what the body can not use and the care of skin, hair, eyes and lips becomes a delightfully simple matter, because nature itself supplies the most of what is needed in color, brightness and texture.

If for any reason you suspect, because of how you feel or how you look—that elimination in your case is not altogether what it ought to be, you should take immediate steps to correct this obstacle to health and true beauty. You should avoid all rich and greasy foods, especially fried foods, and in your diet lay strong emphasis on fresh vegetables, greens and fruits, taking meat sparingly and tea and coffee not at all. The following exercises practiced regularly will be a help:

1. Lying flat on the back, palms downward and under the thighs, raise the feet straight up above the head. Keep the knees straight. Now separate the feet sideways and slowly as far as you can and bring them back together. Repeat the exercise six or eight times from the starting position.
2. Stand erect. Raise the hands as far as you can. Bending at the waist, touch the floor with the finger tips, first at a point a little outside the right foot, then, after returning to the starting point, outside the left foot. Finish by tapping the floor in a half-circle around your feet from right to left and from left to right. Be sure to keep the knees straight. Repeat the entire exercise six to eight times.
3. Finish your exercises with some deep breathing before an open window. Night and morning is not too much. You will soon be looking forward to your exercises at one of the real luxuries of the day.

Mrs. L. L.: The suggestions I have given above, both as to diet and exercise, will prove helpful in reducing abdomen and hips.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counselor.

Dr. Dean will answer all signed letters pertaining to parents' problems with their sons and girls. Writers' names are never printed. Only questions of general interest answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail. Write in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Address Arthur Dean, in care of this paper.

AMBITIOUS BOY.

MY DEAR BOY—You are in luck. As I said yesterday you may assume that the near future is going to bring ever bigger business organizations than now. This means there will be a need for original, energetic and commanding minds to manage these great organizations and their many departments. You are going to fill these positions because you have learned how to master a new idea, to adjust yourself to changing position and to focus the attention of the management on your ability to handle a new job. You will have strength of mind and character. You will break through the level of the mediocre group. You will be the boss. The others will work for the machines, business forms and index cards you devise.

You are lucky. You will be prepared through education to meet the changing conditions. You will be able to adjust yourself to a new situation. You will be sitting pretty on the top of the world. Specialization will bury the unambitious.

Your school experiences in leadership will come in handy. Soliciting advertising for your school paper has given you some power of salesmanship. Your ability to stand on your feet and debate has taught you how to hold the attention of a group. Your editorial work has given you a command of English. Your experience on the team has instilled the idea of team work. A participant in athletics you have learned to turn defeat into victory. Your mathematics will be useful in interpreting balance sheets. Your vocational preparation will start you on a paying job. No one is going to exploit you.

Now, Ambitious Youth, let me for a moment speak technically. The growth of big business means still more of the mass production idea. Three kinds of master men will be needed: Those who design and supervise the operation of the machines, those who administer the business of the plant and those who distribute the products and find new markets. If you are ambitious to belong to the first group, or the second, you need an engineering or an administrative mind. If you are ambitious to belong to the third group, you require a distributive mind. You must have selling ability, judgment, foresight, tremendous initiative and strong personality. You must have a distribution and marketing of products is a growing field. Very likely it offers the larger financial return and the greater opportunities for advancement. Just figure it out for yourself. Are you of the engineering and managing type, or are you of the distribution and marketing type? Your choice of the right school course depends upon making up your mind which work you are best fitted for.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

This seems reasonable. Through an accident my little boy has lost his arm below the elbow. He is just out of the hospital, and keeps saying, "Mother, will my arm grow out again?" I have told him that it will not. He is a very sensitive child and naturally this accident has upset him. What can I do to encourage him?

Answer—I think you should have said, "Yes, my boy, your arm will grow out again. You see, it is in this way you are going to wear, by and by, a wonderful arm that is made so that it looks just like the other arm and can do lots of things with it. This course you can't do quite all the things other boys do, but because of an accident you will be very anxious to do most of the things most boys do, who knows but that you may be a little girl in New York City who recently lost her arm, one below the elbow and one above. Yet, at the age of 11, this girl has taken a penmanship prize. Not only can she write, but she feeds herself, dresses herself and even knits."

In one sense of the word, you see, mother, his arm will grow out again. Most of this new arm will be in his head and his heart, however.

No Description.

After reading one of the questions and answers in your column I think I am an extrovert. Am I?

Answer—But you didn't tell me anything about yourself. Have you these characteristics: Ready laughter, fluent speech, carefree disposition, no susceptibility to flattery, willingness to lend money, love of sports, scorn of the "high brow" conservative views, tact? If you have—yes.

A Chinese Proverb.

I have worn myself to a frazzle scolding my boy of 10. I am nervous and he is flippant. What can I do?

WORN OUT MOTHER.

Answer—Perhaps the strongest stimulus he is receiving in the way of his own nervousness is coming from you. I regret to say that your own example carries within itself the suggestion to your boy to act likewise. Example has always been stronger than preachment. The Chinese have a proverb to the effect: "Not the cry, but the flight of the wild duck leads the flock to fly and to follow."

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

Man, Play Ball!

DEAR Miss McDonald: You can tell from the legal cap what I expect to get a degree in next month, but I have a few questions I would like you to answer for me—if the court please!

First of all, I think I had better tell you the whole story. When I left home last September I was engaged to a very sweet little girl. Everything was fine when I went home at Xmas time and it seemed nothing would ever part us, but about two months afterward, I got a clear letter from her telling me that she could not go through with our plans and asked me to forgive her and hoped we could be friends. I wrote and told her that I certainly could not think of holding her to her promise if she felt that way and I would send back what gifts I had received from her and would expect mine back.

I wrote back asking me to keep what she had given me and asked if she couldn't keep what I had given her, and also asked me to give her time to think things all over, as she said she was in an awful dilemma with me 2,000 miles away and other boys showering attentions on her she did not know where to turn. Well, I accepted that because I know it must be hard for a girl under the circumstances, it was easy for me, as I had my school work to keep me occupied, but not so with her.

Well, we went along until about three weeks ago, when she stopped writing, and when she did not answer my letter asking for an explanation, I gave up. But here's what is puzzling me now: In three weeks or a month I will be back home, in a small town, for only a week, as I am to start practicing in the city. Shall I call her up on the phone while I am home, and what shall I do if I run into her on the street, which most likely I will?

I still think I love this girl, but if the feeling is not mutual I certainly don't want to be forcing my attentions where they are not wanted.

I hope I have not bored you with this, but your answer means a lot to me and I will appreciate a prompt reply, as I leave for home the first of June, and I am sorry to say, I will not see your column any more after that.

Why, Joe! Call her up, of course, as soon as you reach home! If you do not, I will certainly feel it in my bones and send my second soul to haunt you by night.

No real man ever gives up a woman he loves just because of a quarrel. He makes ten super epics and still leaves solutions of quarrels, to handle misunderstandings and, above all, to match his chances with all comers.

Call her up, date her, and start all over. But that's what you intended to do, anyhow—Isn't it?

Good-bye, my Joe. Best of luck with the law as well as with love, and glad that you feel so kindly toward the little column.

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

CONTINUING our Tuesday-Wednesday and Thursday series of questions concerning Bidding at Bridge, I am asking three more today. How many can you answer? Score in all cases love-all (nothing-noting). Try to determine the right answer before reading the replies given below.

TODAY'S HAND.

♠-K-X-X
♥-K-X
♦-K-X
♣-K

1. What should South (Dealer) declare, holding the above hand?
2. What should West (Second Hand) declare with it: South having bid one No Trump?
3. What should North (Third Hand) declare with it: South having bid one Diamond and West having passed?

THE ANSWER.

1. One Spade. This is a hand in which one of a suit should be bid, although it does not contain two quick tricks in the sense of having an Ace-King, two Aces, one Ace and one King-Queen or two King-Queens; but the Spade is one quick trick and the hand contains much more than the equivalent of another. The Queen of Spades accompanying the Ace has two-thirds of a chance of being worth a trick; that is, it will take a trick with Spades trump if the King of Spades be in partner's hand or on the right. It has a half chance of taking a trick if the King be adversely held. Each of the two Kings has the same chance of taking a trick that the Queen (accompanied by the Ace) possesses, so that two Kings and the Queen together are much more than the equivalent of a quick trick.

2. Pass. This hand can not be counted worth more than six tricks against a No Trump, even with every break favoring it. When sitting over a No Trump, suits should not be bid unless the bidder is within two tricks of game; so this hand falls two tricks short of the requirement. It also falls well short of a doubling hand, it needs another high card; and its distribution is not suitable to doubling, as any answer the partner might make—except Spades—would involve great danger.

3. One Spade. This hand has more than normal support for partner's Minor and, if there were any score, the Minor should not be disturbed; but without a score a better game-guess should be found if possible. The hand contains two such possibilities, viz. No Trump and a Spade. In view of the general make-up and the defense of the hand, a Spade seems to be much the wiser selection.

Myths of the Norsemen

H. THOR AND THUNDER.

WHEN thunder sounds, we are likely to shudder or tremble. We know that lightning— which causes thunder—is far less dangerous than auto traffic, but still we start or jump when there is a sharp peal or clap.

One of the days of our week is named after this old Norse god. Thursday used to be called "Thor's day." Among the other Norse gods was Balder, the bright god of the sun. He was said to be "so fair of face that he shined of himself."

The Norsemen also believed in goddesses. One of them was named Freya. We may trace the name of Friday back to the time when people spoke of "Freya's day."

Another Norse goddess was Hella or Hel. The word "hell" came into our language from her name. The ancient Jews never spoke of "hell," but used "sheol" or "gehenna" instead.

Hel was cruel, and put her cold fingers on every spirit which did not go to the Home of the Spirits. From time to time, it was said, she rode about the country on the back of a three-legged horse. Her business was to gather the dead. Sometimes she rode in a two-wheeled cart, instead of horse-back.

This god they called Thor, and they said that he made thunder by hurling his hammer across the heavens. When the rumble was heard, people would say: "Thor is throwing his hammer again."

How much more must the old Norsemen have noticed the thunder? They lived in small huts in forests or fields, or beside the famous fiords of the Northland. Storms seemed to burst right over their heads.

We must not blame the rude tribesmen for having strange ideas about thunder. They knew nothing of the electricity which makes lightning. It is no wonder that they thought some godlike being was making all the noise.

Dear Mary: Will you come to the reception and supper we are having at the house after the ceremony? Yours affectionately, Francis Barnes.

Or you could send a formal invitation, though wedding suppers are unusual.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barnes request the pleasure of Miss Mary Leigh's company at the wedding reception and supper of their daughter on Monday, June first at 8 o'clock.

I have never heard of any other way. Reservation cards are sometimes sent to people, after they have accepted, for their seats in the pews at church. Is that what you mean?

MODISH MITZI

A Very Private Fashion Show

This is a fashion show exclusively for Mitzi's benefit. All the six bridesmaids have seen the trousseau lingerie, but what is the use of being a maid of honor if some honor is not paid one? Alyse and the others are showing Mitzi the lovely silky lace things that are going into Alyse's new trunks next Saturday. The cape negligee is made of finely pleated pale orchid chiffon combined with cream colored lace and the cape, though the most important half, is still only half of it. The rest is a pleated chiffon slip, quite straight and simple. The two-piece set is French and the new thing about it is the way the vest is buttoned to the pantie by bands of silk bound in coral color.

The step-in to the left has an asymmetric treatment of tucked georgette and lace, and the one-sided effect is increased by the use of a ribbon sash. Below the lines of the tucked georgette ripples out in a little blouse. The printed chiffon step-in that Alyse is holding is cut very low to allow for the décolletage of her newest evening gown. It has a tailored air which is quite amusing in a garment of mauve and rose chiffon. Alyse is wearing an undergarment of a different cut—two garments, really, since the top is a vest of crepe trimmed with cream lace and the bottom is a very short bloomer of the crepe with just a ruffle edging of the lace. New and French!

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

There was a time when Eric von Stroheim could shock Hollywood by running wild among the cameras and exposing enough film on one picture to make ten super epics and still leave many faces on the cutting-room floor. That day, however, seems to have vanished into the limbo of other forgotten stories. Eric's title of Froidgal Son of the Cinema has passed on to young Howard Hughes, 23-year-old old millionaire, who since last November has been shooting an air special, "Hell's Angels," with the sky as the limit.

Many weeks ago this column made reference to Howard Hughes and Joseph Kennedy as the two most important financial figures then looming into prominence and power. Mr. Kennedy while still a young man, is considerably past the tender age of 25 and already is established as a dominant figure in shaping the destiny of the movies.

This Hughes chap—unless the oil wells run dry in the meantime—bids fair himself to get up there with the big boys also. Since he bought a fleet of 500 planes and began unwinding celluloid in the clouds, Hughes has expended more than 1,000,000 feet of film (the exact figure on last May 18, was 1,069,704 feet) and has spent about $1,500,000. He expects to have the picture ready in September at a total cost of about $2,000,000.

The new film and developing alone have cost approximately $750,000 to date. One million feet of film, of course, is equivalent to 1,000 reels and most fans have a fair idea of the length of the usual five-reel picture!

This is the young man, too, who engaged to prove he was not going broke by assuming the high priced contracts of many of the popular players too costly for the rest of the companies to afford. Among those so acquired are Thomas Meighan, Ben Lyon, Raymond Griffith, Louis Wolheim and several others.

I have heard of none resigning on account of nonpayment of salary.

Hardie Monklin leaps to his feet to tell me if a motor cop can do anything else besides hand out tickets to speeding drivers, and then in the same breath shouts in my ear that Horton Spurr, now dancing in Mr. Stebbins' revue at the Fox Theater, answers "yes!"

It seems that after the war Mr. Spurr was unable to crash his way back into his chosen profession of musical comedy actor. Several years away from his feet, he has been busy in Journeying to Atlantic City, he learned that the fashionable suburb of Ventnor needed a motor cycle cop, and Spurr needed a job. Having convinced the chief that he understood the operation of one of these boulevard pests—meaning motorcycle, not the rider;

FIRST DIVISION BERTH NOW IS GOAL OF NATIONALS

Federal Golf Field Led by Miller

Rain, Slog and Fog Attends Department League Play.

161 Card Tops First Group; 100 Players Tee Off Today.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST. The golfers who were assigned to play yesterday in the first day's competition of the interdepartmental golf league on the course of the Indian Spring Club were out of luck. All day long the rain came down from weeping skies and the players sloshed around through the tall grass, ploughed through the fairways and punted on water-logged greens. They showed their devotion and their enthusiasm, however, by appearing on the first tee, nearly 100 in number, and only a few of them acknowledged themselves defeated by the storm.

It is true that when the shades of night were falling and the course was covered with a fog thick enough to be cut by a knife, five of the contestants who had started late on their afternoon round failed to return to the caddy house with their cards. It was reported that they had become lost in the fog and the darkness, but the officials declined to send a searching party for their relief.

Under the circumstances, the low score of John E. Miller, of the Treasury Department, was most creditable. He had a 78 in the morning round and an 83 in the afternoon for a total of 161, 9 strokes better than the 175 turned in by F. E. Early, Interstate Commerce, and Thomas A. Kellner, Jr., Commerce.

Miller, however, was represented Washington as a member of the Harding Cup Team in national public links tournaments. George Wadsworth and M. A. Shipley, both of the State Department, were the lowest scorers in the tournament of the league last year. As to play today, and Miller may not hold the lead which he so gallantly obtained yesterday.

The low net of the day was secured by G. P. Tarleton, of the Patent Office, whose gross 175, less a handicap of 30, gave him a net 145. A. L. Duncan, Treasury, was a close second with a card of 172—36—146, while John T. Harris, War, was third with 175—28—147.

Conditions did not warrant brilliant playing, and the eagle 3, which T. W. Wanner, Postoffice, secured on the long seventh hole, was so exceptional as to create a sensation among the players. One of the curious and unusual facts in connection with the tournament was noted in an examination of the score cards.

No less than nine players had identical rounds both morning and afternoon. They were A. M. Dew, Patent; S. R. Sweetman, Agriculture; Commander C. T. Joy, Navy; R. M. Rondabush, Agriculture; J. V. Medley, Navy; J. A. Phelan, Treasury; E. N. Bodhmer, Justice; Carl Withner, War; and T. A. Kellner, Jr., Commerce.

The remainder of the field, comprising more than 100, will compete today. The departments and other branches of the Government are represented by four-men teams, and the lower gross score for 36 holes made by a team will win the trophy donated by Secretary Mellon. Teams in classes B and C will also win cups, while

D. C. FAVORED IN LACROSSE PLAY-OFF

Twin Bill in Olympic Trials Likely to Be Here June 16.

THE Maryland lacrosse team, chosen by the Olympic committee to represent the country to participate in a play-off to decide the team to represent the United States in the Olympic at Amsterdam this summer settled down to strenuous training yesterday.

Maryland will make an effort to whip off Maryland in the play-off. The team is now in training at the University of Maryland, and will play a double bill which also brings together Mount Washington and Johns Hopkins.

The final will come on June 23, for which no place has as yet been selected. But it is expected that the final will be held at the University of Maryland, and will be a double bill which also brings together Mount Washington and Johns Hopkins.

Of the six teams chosen for the play-off, Maryland is the favorite in the coming play. The team is composed of former college stars. Maryland was beaten by Hopkins, 6-1, Navy by Maryland, 3-1, while Army and Rutgers also lost a game, while Hopkins was beaten by both service teams.

Tuckerman Triumphs In Chevy Chase Golf

Walter R. Tuckerman yesterday won the golf championship of the Chevy Chase Club for the fourth time. Tuckerman, who is a member of the club, began yesterday afternoon. Tuckerman was leading his nearest competitor, C. Ashmead Fuller, by eight strokes.

Army to Play Stanford in New York

Grid Game Dec. 1 to Replace Annual Service Clash.

West Point to Travel to Coast for Contest in 1929.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 4 (A.P.). The United States Military Academy Football Team will play Stanford University in New York City December of this year and the two teams will meet at Palo Alto, Calif., in 1929. Official announcement to this effect was made today at the academy.

Two representatives of Stanford arrived at the military academy at 5 o'clock this afternoon and an hour later the two teams had been reached. At the conference were Maj. Philip B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at the Academy; Capt. Lawrence "Biff" Jones, head coach of Army football; Alfred Masters, graduate manager of athletics at Stanford; and Prof. W. B. Owen, representing the Stanford faculty.

The representatives of both institutions were delighted at the successful completion of arrangements for the games, the first in any sport in which Stanford and the Army ever have met. The journey to Palo Alto for the 1929 game will be the first an Army team has ever made to the Pacific Coast while Stanford never before has sent its eleven so far East.

While the exact scene of the New York game was not announced, it is understood it will be held in one of the big ball parks—the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds.

Secretary of War Davi already has expressed his approval of a trip to the coast during the Christmas holidays. The Army Football Team, and it was his announcement several days ago that this would be allowed which led to disclosure that negotiations for a series of games were in progress.

It was at first supposed that the Army would play this year at Palo Alto with the Cardinals coming East in 1929, but the arrangements made and agreed upon as definite today reverse this plan.

The Stanford game has thus replaced the annual Army-Navy contest as the main objective for the Cadets. Eleven, the service game having been abandoned after the dispute over eligibility standards which followed last year's game.

The two Stanford officials made it clear that they understood that the Army does not have a "three-year eligibility rule," but his representative said their institution was perfectly satisfied to meet the Cadets despite the difference in the rules.

This was the rock upon which the Army and Navy split. Stanford does itself observe the three-year rule, but his representative said their institution was perfectly satisfied to meet the Cadets despite the difference in the rules.

Cleland Cup Tourney Now Listed June 14

Owing to a conflict in dates, the famed Cleland Cup golf tournament, the occasion of the semiannual frolic of the Washington sportswriters at the Army War College, has been postponed to the previous Saturday, also at New York. A third game for the Cadets is the annual meeting with Notre Dame, November 10.

3 Capital Netwomen On Mid-Atlantic Team

Baltimore, Md., June 4.—Nine women tennis players of the Middle Atlantic section, three of whom are Washingtonians, have been chosen to represent the district in the first sectional matches for the Eleanor Sears trophy at the Germantown Club, Philadelphia, this week. The first round will be held Friday afternoon and the survivors of the four teams will meet in the final match Saturday.

Hornsbys and Sisler Beat Reds in Ninth

Boston, June 3 (A.P.).—Manager Rogers Hornsby took things into his own hands in the ninth inning today and won a baseball game from the Cincinnati Reds by a 5 to 3 score. After Dypsen's homer had tied the score in the first half of the ninth, Hornsby singled and Hornsby followed with a tremendous drive over the center field bleachers that went for a home run. Hornsby also drove in a run with a single after Sisler had singled.

Prerogative Odds Failure at Arlington

Special to The Washington Post. Chicago, June 4.—Posting the parimutuel betting odds before the start of each race at Arlington Park lasted only during the running of the first two events. There was nearly a 30-minute delay before each of them. The crowd yelled for action. The customers had plenty of time to get into line and make their bets and collect later—if they won.

Helen Wills Triumphs in France

American Net Queen Easily Vanquishes Miss Bennett.

Cochet, Brilliant, Wins Men's Finals From Rene Lacoste.

AUTEUIL, France, June 4 (A.P.).—America's Helen Wills today became the undisputed women's tennis queen of the world by adding the French international heretofore crown to her collection which already includes the English and American titles.

Henri Cochet, of France, qualified as prince consort by winning the men's singles and becoming champion of his own country as well as England. Both Miss Wills and Cochet met worthy adversaries, but won in decisive fashion befitting a champion. Miss Wills swept to victory over Miss Eileen Bennett, of England, 6-1, 6-2, while Cochet, playing inspired tennis, downed his redoubtable countryman, Rene Lacoste, the defending champion and present holder of the United States title, by scores of 5-7, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

The plucky Miss Bennett, whose play earlier in the tournament stamped her as probably the best woman player in Europe, was no match for the hard-hitting American girl and gave her no more serious opposition than Miss Wills' four antagonists of previous rounds. Like them, Miss Bennett was unable to score more than three games, while Miss Wills was making the requisite twelve for a straight-set victory.

Try as she might, the English girl was unable to make the slightest impression on the American's sound game, which today was more perfect than ever. A slight weakness in overhead play at the net.

Miss Wills led throughout the entire match, and when Miss Bennett challenged in the second set by tying the score in three games at one-all, the American showed her command of the situation by breaking through in the next game and steadily drawing away.

To win, Miss Wills had to out-guess and out-stroke her English rival. When Miss Bennett tried a stratagem and adopted a "lobbing" Helen countered in similar fashion, until the precise moment for a change of pace when she promptly killed the point with a fast drive.

It was a very enjoyable match," said Miss Wills. "I was very happy to play her. Miss Bennett took her defeat philosophically.

It is no disgrace to be beaten by such a wonderful player as Helen," was her comment.

Cochet's victory was won in characteristic fashion after he had dropped the first set to his national rival, but he never let up his game from set to set, and varying his sharply angled cross-court returns with perfect fast shots which he cleared through the net.

Cobb's Hitting Sends White Sox to Defeat

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—An early attack which netted six runs in the first three innings was all the Athletics needed to win the third game of their series with the White Sox, 6 to 3, today. Ty Cobb led the attack with a single and a triple which drove in three runs in the first and second innings.

"LITTLE BILL" JOHNSTON. Hero of Many U. S. Triumphs Hangs Up Racket.

"LITTLE BILL" JOHNSTON RETIRES

Hero of Many U. S. Triumphs Hangs Up Racket.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4 (A.P.).—An old-time racket and an old-time player, the two of which combined to make one of the most dynamic figures tennis has known, ended a glorious career today. William M. (Little Bill) Johnston retired from all active competition.

Thus passed out of the picture the little sportsman whose unerring accuracy and whistling line of balls twice brought him the national singles title every year while tennis title in the world, and helped America regain the Davis Cup in 1920 and hold it for seven years.

Nearly 34, "Little Bill" has slaved up somewhat, while increasing demands of business have kept him off the courts for long periods at a time during the past twelve months. For these reasons he did not try out for the Davis Cup team this year nor prepare for his annual Eastern invasion that first started in 1913.

Johnston started playing when he was 11. Since that time the diminutive star has blazed a brilliant path over the tennis world. Always carrying his trophies lightly and modestly, he has been known as one of the greatest exponents of the game.

Johnston won the national championship in 1915 and repeated in 1919. In 1920, as one member of a two-man team, he journeyed to Australia. When he came back, the national singles title, the greatest trophies in tennis, came back with him. Those who know say that it was Johnston's marvelous play that was largely responsible for the American victory. With the cup ball in the States again. Bill raised his racket for the next seven years in defense of his country.

While friends felt a twinge of regret that he was through, Johnston himself doesn't feel so badly about it. He feels that he has done his best, and the game it has done as much for him. He could have made a substantial sum by turning professional, but declined to do so, and has been working very hard. It is understood that he was offered $25,000 to tour the country with Suzanne Lenglen, the French star.

English Derby Pool Share Brings $30,000

(Special Cable Dispatch.) London, June 4.—England, particularly London, is seething in a sea of speculation on a large and small scale over the Derby match, Wednesday, for which the famous annual preliminary luncheon was held at the Press Club today. The records indicate that the horses are carrying more money than ever this year.

The excitement is given an added spurt this year by the fact that the favorite, Godfrey Teale, who drew the favorite, Fairway, in the famous Calcutta Derby Sweepstakes is not yet aware of his good luck. He is a member of the West Africa police force in Nigeria, and his relatives are frantically trying to inform him as quick as possible via cable that he is lined up for the $125,000 prize.

Another sensational lucky draw was that of Mary Malone, actress-wife of the actor, Godfrey Teale, well known in America, who has drawn Raigelt Singh. Mrs. Teale immediately caught the midnight train from Bristol, where she is playing, in order to sell a share in London. This afternoon she sold two quarter shares totaling $30,000, and is retaining the remaining half, interest, which will bring an additional prize of more than $500,000 if she has the winner.

Third Position Chief Hope Of Nats

Return of Goslin and Harris to Bolster Team, Is View.

St. Louis Rain Forces 13th Postponement of Season.

By FRANK H. YOUNG (Staff Correspondent of The Post). ST. LOUIS, June 4.—This is one season when Manager Harris and his men do not object to postponed games, the "thirteenth" without of the young "7-28" schedule being recorded this afternoon when rain forced the Nats and Browns to idle for the second consecutive day. Postponed games mean double-headers on the next trip, and as a general proposition players detest these bargain-day bills, but instead of protesting, the Washington players look upon these idle days as good "breaks."

Despite the fact that they are last in the team standing, all are optimistic that their team still will figure in the money. All clubs which finish in the first division earn a share in the world's series spoils, and after having met all of the other entrants the Nationals, from Manager Harris down, declare that under normal conditions they have as strong a combination as any team in the league except the New York Yankees.

Believing this, some of the players have even picked third place as their goal for the season. This is a far cry from the first place which the Mackmen have too big a lead to be caught, while to a man the Harris-men are confident that they will at least finish fourth.

While their winning percentage is a puzzle, it is not admitted that there has not been a single game this season in which Manager Harris has been able to put his best team on the field. The Nats have had more leadouts than any other team in the league as regards the injuries, and yet might have made a fair showing had those of Goslin and Harris not been so permanent.

The Nats are now but six games out of fourth place with nearly three-fourths of the season yet to go. That is why they are raising 3-0 objection to idle days at this time, for they figure that, when these games are played later, the most likely candidates to be back in action and the team will be in a better position to play the brand of ball expected of it.

Among the many disappointing features of the Washington Club's play to date have been the failure of the Nats to win a single game since the arrival of the new players. Neither has an all-or-excess, and as has been shown that they have been "figured on" to show improvement. In any event, they can not do any worse.

As intimated above, the biggest handicap under which the Nats have been working has been the injuries of Goslin and Harris, who were the mainstays of the American League season last year. Under orders, Goslin has not tried to do anything. For the first time since his return from the hospital, he has been in action and the team will be in a better position to play the brand of ball expected of it.

Manager Harris, who has been championed by the Nats, is now in a week. His injured fingers are fast losing their soreness, and his wrenched instep is now his main source of worry. He believes, however, that he is long to have worked himself back into condition.

The Browns and Nationals are scheduled to meet tomorrow, but the weather man holds out little hope, as showers are predicted. If the game is played, Red Hadden is expected to draw the pitching assignment.

Braxton did so well against the Yankees last week, when he held them scoreless with three hits, that he will be started regularly unless he shows that his last performance as a starter was a fluke. Jojo Ogdan or Walter Beck will oppose Braxton tomorrow.

If Braxton proves that he is capable of doing the job, he will be given the role which made him famous in 1924 and 1925, doing most of the relief work.

Many Believe Spree Is Winner in Close Finish of Race.

L. Fator Brings Ran-cocas Star Home in Fashion Stakes.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, June 4.—The rich Ran-cocas Stable of Harry F. Jones sent out the winner of the Fashion Stakes that featured today's racing at Belmont Park. The Fashion was a dash of four and one-half furlongs through the Widener chute of 2-year-olds, Orisa, the prim daughter of the great purchase and Durbar, broke a track record to win. She came down to the finish line in 51 seconds flat to clip by 2-5 seconds a mark held jointly by such illustrious old thoroughbreds as Cheops, After-glow and Bostonian. There was no favorable wind to aid record-breaking performance.

Orisa proved her class, proved it in one of the most powerful finishes A. L. Fator can ride. But not to win ten assembled near the true goal of that chute which agreed with the placing of the judges. They all thought the Salubra Stakes Spree had got to win by a good head, if not a short neck. Calicalls and hisses and boos greeted the first flash of Orisa's number.

Even the jockeys concerned (Lavern Fator and Steve O'Connell), seemed mystified by the placing as they cantered back to weigh out. J. S. Levin's Effie, paying 8 to 1, won the first race, a dash drive by Friedhof Nansen, second and King Jimmy third. It was a close finish and Effie got the decision by a head after closing fast. The second race, a 30-to-1 shot, made a dash of the field in the third race, when she romped away with the purse, running the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46. She led all the way and won by four lengths over Vito, which in turn took the race by a wide distance. Knapsack the favorite, was third.

In an Scout, with L. Fator up, was an easy winner of the fourth race, a 3-furlong sprint, and a dash drive in 1:10 3-5, which is just three-fifths of a second slower than the track record. Caroler was second and Sandy third.

BANK CREDIT MACHINERY
OF COUNTRY DISCUSSEDManufacture, Farm and Labor Organizations Represented at Meeting Here.

MARKET PRICES FIRM

By F. W. PATTERSON.

More than 100 economists, bankers, manufacturers and representatives of farm and labor organizations met yesterday under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to consider questions in relation to the country's banking and credit machinery, especially the operation of the Federal Reserve System.

The discussion of the conference centered upon the tentative report of a special committee which for the last year has been making a study of banking and credit problems with the aim of making recommendations looking to possible improvements to meet the changing conditions of all classes of business and industry.

In addition to the main report of the committee, dealing principally with the Federal Reserve System, the conference had before it auxiliary reports on better banking under the Federal Reserve System, rediscussing operations of the Federal banks, open market operations of the Federal Reserve Bank, credit policy, structure and control of Federal Reserve System, reserve requirements of banks and member banks, Federal reserve notes and currency, and membership of the Reserve System.

The purpose of the conference is to bring to a focus upon these questions the widest and most representative opinion, preliminary to the drafting of the final report of the committee to be made later in the year.

Those attending the conference are bankers and business men from cities over 100,000, while local members present yesterday were Frederic A. Delano, E. A. Goldenweiser, director of the division of research and statistics, Federal Reserve Board; Dr. Charles O. Hardy, Institute of Economics; Edward F. McGarry, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor; Roy A. Young, governor Federal Reserve Board, and Edmund V. Platt, Federal Reserve Board; Joshua Evans, Jr., vice president of the National Bank of Commerce; H. H. Hoxton, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

Bank Shares Change Hands.

Yesterday's session of the Washington Stock Exchange was marked by the number of bank issues in which trading took place, although except in the case of Riggs National and Federal-American National, which sold in greater volume than usual, the turnover was light.

Riggs National, which recently soared to a new high of $35, started and finished at this level with 5 lots changing hands; Federal-American National sold to the extent of 80 shares in two lots unchanged at $38; American Security & Trust Co. sold in an odd lot at $40, as did District National Bank in moving at $45; Merchants Bank & Trust Co. advanced a point to $18, while Continental Trust Co. sold in a 5-share lot at $35. This is the first transaction in the latter stock since late in 1927 when the price went as high as $30 under a buying by groups seeking control of the institution, the groups failing and the control remaining in the hands of the present management.

Norfolk and Washington Steamboat led the utility list and under sales of 83 shares advanced 2 points to $30. Washington Railway & Electric preferred advanced to $100 1/2, while Potomac Electric Power 5 1/2 per cent preferred sold firm at $107 1/2. Stocks on the miscellaneous listing which came out were Columbia Sand & Gravel preferred, selling at $8; Federal-American Co. preferred, which sold at $10 1/2 on sale of a single share; Merchants Lintotype at $10 1/2; and Sanitary Grocery preferred firm at $17.

Bond sales were recorded in Capital Transaction 55 at 103 1/2; Washington Gas 6 1/2 series A, at 102 1/2; series B at 105 1/2, while Washington Railway & Electric 4 1/2 sold at 93 1/2.

Buys Airplane Shares.

An offering of 100,000 voting trust certificates of Aeronautical Industries, Inc., is being made today by W. W. Townsend & Co., Inc., at $20 per share. Each share of stock to be presently issued in voting trust form will carry a detachable warrant entitling the holder to purchase 1 share of treasury stock at $30 per share until May 1, 1933. Proceeds from the sale of the stock will be invested by a committee in the securities of various corporations.

Each share of stock to be presently issued in voting trust form will carry a detachable warrant entitling the holder to purchase one share of Treasury Stock at $30 per share until May 1, 1933.

Purpose of Issue:

AERONAUTICAL INDUSTRIES, INC. has been formed for the purpose of affording the American public an opportunity to make a cross-section investment in the aeronautical industry. The proceeds from the sale of the stock which is being offered, less expenses of distribution and a small margin of profit to the bankers, will be entirely invested by a Committee to be appointed for that purpose in the securities of various corporations engaged in the manufacture of airplanes, airplane motors, aeronautical accessories, the carrying of air mail, the operation of aerial passenger transportation service and express service, both in this country and abroad, the development of air ports, and such other phases of the aeronautical industry as may from time to time demonstrate their feasibility.

The stock to be presently issued is to be placed in a Voting Trust for five years, after which time the Voting Trust Certificates will be exchanged for the actual stock carrying full voting rights, it being the purpose of the Trustees to administer the affairs of the corporation only during the initial period of its development. A portion of the Treasury stock has been optioned to the bankers at prices higher than the present offering price to the public and will be subsequently offered in accordance with the capital requirements of the company.

Management:

Mr. Lester D. Gardner, formerly Publisher of "Aviation" and at present a Director of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, will be the President of Aeronautical Industries, Inc., and will be supported by a Board comprising both financial and aeronautical experts. Moody's Investors' Service will act in an advisory capacity.

Price $20. per Share

Subscriptions will be received for stock, when, and as it is issued and subject to allotment

NOVEL GOLFGERS AMONG 300 IN COLUMBIA TOURNEY

Mid-Atlantic Links Lights Entered

First of Qualifying Rounds to Start Tomorrow.

Entries Are Mounting; Starting Times Announced.

PROMINENT golf stars of the middle Atlantic section are listed among the more than 300 players scheduled to take part in the annual Columbia golf tournament, of the Columbia Country Club, which starts tomorrow. George P. James, chairman of the golf committee, announced last night that owing to the mounting entry list two days had been assigned for the qualification round, which will begin at 8:30 a. m.

The out-of-town entry list is unusually large, from the County Club of Virginia to leading players of Richmond—Gordon Wood and Fred J. D. Mackay—have sent in their entries. The Baltimore delegation will be headed by Thomas W. Sasser, of the Maryland Country Club, former State champion and one of the ranking players of Maryland. Among the other Maryland players of note are William ("Big Bill") Hall, Lester W. McCrea, Harry Rosenberg, B. W. Kadel, William Oliver, Elmer Reuling, E. Brown, Howard French, Roger Hall and E. S. Cuyler.

The local entry is strong in first sixteen players with Frank K. Roosen, champion of the Washington Golf and Country Club; Karl F. Seilerman, Columbia; Ashmed Fuller, Chevy Chase; Harry Pitts, Manor; Al Houghton, Manor; Miller B. Stevenson, Albert B. MacKenzie, George P. James and Donald Woodward, Columbia; Page Hufty, Congressional, former North and South amateur champion and winner of the Indian Spring tournament, and Charles Agnew, former public links star.

Match play will be resumed on Friday and Saturday after the qualification round, with a handicap to be played on Saturday.

PLATFORMS TO BE TOPIC OF SPEAKERS OVER WRC

Republican, Democratic and Independent Political Views to Be Presented.

MELODY BOYS AT WMAL

In view of the Republican national convention opening one week from today, the "Voice of Service" program from Station WRC tonight devoted to the subject, "How Party Platforms Are Made," should be of particular interest to the radio audience. This half-hour program will bring before the microphone Ashman N. Brown, Washington correspondent of the Providence Journal; Charles Michelson, chief of the Washington bureau of the New York World; and Basil Manly, director since 1920 of the People's Legislative Service.

The speakers will present Republican, Democratic and Independent interpretations of the subject. Mr. Brown will Be there with your Delegate!

In the quiet of your own home you can hear, ponder and judge the vital history-making speeches of our statesmen as they struggle to nominate our new President.

You can go to the polls to cast your vote with intelligent, first-hand knowledge of the real issues, gained from your intimate radio contact at Kansas City and Houston.

The radio tube is the unifying agent that breaks down all barriers of time and space and enables us to form one vast audience. It is important that there is a complete set of new outline the Republican point of view. He has been identified with Eastern and Western newspapers for 27 years; the last 18 years of which he has been a Washington correspondent.

In presenting the Democratic point of view, Mr. Michelson brings to the radio audience the experience of more than 30 years in the newspaper profession. Mr. Manly will speak for the "Independent" in politics. He is an economist and research expert of recognized standing. He has been identified with the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, the United States Commission on Industrial Relations, the National War Labor Board and with several research bureaus. He is a writer of many books.

The Eveready Hour announces that the Hall Johnson octet will be heard on alternate Tuesday evenings for the next several months. In offerings of negro spirituals, work songs and secular selections. The octet includes eight members of the Hall Johnson singers, the negro musical organization for whose discovery and attraction the Eveready Hour claims responsibility. With Nathaniel Shilkret conducting, the Eveready Orchestra will supply the instrumental side of the program.

A bright assortment of the high lights from recent musical comedies, successes and light operas will be offered by the Seiberling Singers in their regular program.

The overture to Mendelssohn's "Athalia" will open the program of slumber music at 10 o'clock. Other numbers will be a characteristic suite "In Holland" by Christian Kriens, a Dutch composer; Strauss' famous "Blue Danube Waltz," a selection from the operetta of George England "Robin Hood," by De Koven; and numbers by Tchaikovsky and Borovskiy.

Station WRCP will be on the air as usual from 10 until 12 o'clock noon, when a varied program will be heard. A Victor dinner concert is the main evening feature.

Sergeant Stanley of the Metropolitan Police will be heard from WMAL in a Shakespearean recital at 9:15 o'clock tonight. Yeomans and McClure, Pauline Healy, soprano, and the Hawaiian Melody Boys are also scheduled.

John W. Davis, former Ambassador to Great Britain, and Democratic nominee for President in 1924, will speak from WJZ at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

Cadet Sergeants Tied in Annual Competitive Drill

Weber and Corley Divide Honors for First Time in History.

BOTH TO BE DECORATED BECAUSE OF OUTCOME

Today's Schedule May Be Postponed If Rain Continues, Says Craigie.

For the first time in the history of the Washington High School Cadet Corps, a tie developed yesterday in the annual competition for the noncommissioned officer's medal, when Sergt. George Weber, of McKinley, and Sergt. Edmund J. Corley, of Central, divided honors in the contest on the first day of the forty-first annual company competitive drill at Griffith Stadium.

Much rain and a soggy field failed to deter fifteen captains from leading their men through scheduled maneuvers, although school officials made repeated offers to call off the day's program. The noncommissioned officers' competition was held in addition to the company drills at 11:30 o'clock after the sixth company had left the field.

Both to Receive Medals. Sergt. Corley, who tied for first honors, entered the contest as a substitute for Sergt. Mason Culverwell, of Central, who recently suffered a broken arm. Despite his injury, Culverwell was at his post in Company B when that unit made its bid for company honors at the ball park yesterday. Weber and Corley will receive gold medals when Brig. Gen. Brian H. Wells makes company award on the conclusion of the drill program tomorrow.

If the rain continues, however, there may be a postponement of today's schedule, Lieut. Col. Wallace M. Craigie, professor of military science and tactics, indicated last night. Other judges, Maj. Thompson Lawrence, Capt. Jared Wood and First Lieut. E. J. Bond, all of the Infantry, will be on duty as judges, and the fifteen remaining companies of the brigade will drill as scheduled.

Company D to Take Field. Company D of Eastern will be first on the field, if the drill is resumed at 8:30 o'clock this morning. There will follow other units from Eastern and Western, Business, McKinley and Central, before Company K of Western gives the final performance at 4:30.

The judges will then go into conference to select the best three companies in the brigade, after which Gen. Wells will make the awards.

3 Cadet Platoons Will Drill Today

The third annual competition between platoons of Francis, Shaw and Randall Junior high schools, postponed yesterday because of inclement weather, will be resumed at 1 o'clock at the James F. Walker Memorial Stadium, adjoining the Dunbar High School.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the five and drum corps of the Francis Junior High School. The platoons will represent Francis and Shaw, while one will represent Randall, which has captured previous competitions.

Force-Adams Group Seeks Playground

The Force-Adams Parent-Teacher Association yesterday afternoon at a meeting in the Force School urged the District playground committee to provide a playground for the children of the two schools. The small playground adjoining the Adams School in use as a parking place, because the surface is too rough to permit children on it without a supervisor.

The new officers of the association were installed at the meeting. They are Mrs. A. C. Chambers, president; Mrs. J. B. Clark and Miss Florence Gore, vice presidents; Mrs. Frank Riley, recording secretary; Mrs. J. J. O'Malley, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L. T. Gager and Mrs. Helen G. Haberman, treasurers. The annual convention of parent-teachers associations recently held in Cleveland.

Decision in Sinclair Appeal Is Delayed

(Associated Press.) No decision in the appeal of Harry F. Sinclair, from his conviction for refusing to answer questions asked by the Senate Teapot Dome committee, was handed down yesterday by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. It was the last decision of the court in recent years and a decision is not probable until the court resumes next October.

Sinclair appealed from a sentence of three months in jail and a fine of $500. He had declined to answer questions during the senate committee's investigation into the leasing of the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve, which was headed by Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior.

$4,200 Alimony Truce. Mrs. Grace D. Hoban was awarded judgment yesterday by Justice Peyton Gordon in Equity Court against William D. Hoban for $4,200 arrears in alimony under an order dated July 27, 1921, by which Hoban was required to pay $70 a month under Mrs. Hoban's decree for limited divorce. Attorney Lambert, Yeaman and Canfield, counsel for Mrs. Hoban, complained that Hoban was 60 weeks in arrears.

Carnegie Diplomas For 3 Capital Students

Three residents of the District were represented yesterday in the class of 360 graduates receiving diplomas at commencement exercises of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, in Pittsburgh, Pa. The class was the largest in the history of the school.

The graduates from Washington were Yu Yen Lai, of 2300 Nineteenth street, who received a degree in printing; M. D. Burnside, of 1418 Newton street, who received a degree in works management; and George W. Fisher, of 1107 I street northwest, who took a B. S. degree in civil engineering. William T. Gary, of 1214 Decatur street, was awarded a certificate in plumbing.

Speakers Announced For Bar Banquet

Former Gov. Ephraim Morgan, of West Virginia, and William Wolf Smith, general counsel of the Veterans' Bureau, are among the speakers who will address the Federal Bar Association, comprising lawyers in the Government service, at their annual dinner at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Hamilton Hotel.

Short talks also will be delivered by former Senator Thomas Sterling and Thomas P. Healy, of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Plates have been reserved for 100 members of the association.

INQUEST PLANNED TODAY INTO DEATH OF TEACHUM

Man, Found Unconscious, Was Operated on After Transfer to Gallinger.

CHARGED WITH DRINKING

An inquest into the death of John Teachum, 45 years old, of 1136 Florida avenue northeast, who died Sunday afternoon at Gallinger Hospital, will be held this morning at the District morgue.

Teachum and two companions, Eugene Robey, 223 Tennessee avenue northeast, and T. B. Montgomery, 623 I street northeast, had been fishing Saturday night and to Robey's home to divide their fish. They then started for their homes in an automobile driven by Robey. At Fourteenth street and Maryland avenue northeast their car was in collision with a car driven by Dominick A. Criniti, 617 Maryland avenue southwest.

Robey was charged with reckless driving at the Ninth Precinct police station and released in $50 collateral. Teachum then left the party, walking. An hour later he was found unconscious in the 1400 block of H street northeast. He was taken to Casualty and later charged with intoxication and transferred to Gallinger Hospital. Relatives posted $10 collateral in order to move the injured man from Gallinger Hospital, but he died before he could be moved.

Teachum was operated on at Gallinger Hospital for a fractured skull. His name was called in Police Court yesterday to answer the charge of intoxication. His death was noted on the information paper and the collateral will be held until his estate is settled. Robey was fined $25 on the reckless driving charge in Traffic Court.

Court Backs Browne In Bomb Patent Fight

The Court of Appeals yesterday awarded priority to Ralph C. Browne, of Salem, Mass., in a patent dispute concerning the Mark IV type of underwater mines, which played havoc with the German submarines in the English Channel, the North and the Baltic seas during the World War.

Interference proceedings were instituted by John K. Harrison, of Ogontz, Pa., who had been a naval instructor supervising the manufacture of the mines at Cambridge, Mass. Seven counts of interference were specified in the petition, but the court held in favor of Browne, dissolved one and held the other three in favor of Browne. The appellate court reversed the District Court's decision in connection with the first three counts. The court found that Harrison's device was merely a substitute for the relay circuit of Browne's invention. Browne's discovery was made during the war and resulted in the destruction of enemy craft without the reckless driving charge in Traffic Court.

DRY INFORMER HELD ON PERJURY CHARGE

Police Say He Was Trapped in Falsely Swearing He Made "Buy."

With the arrest yesterday of Amos Collins, alias "Buck White," colored, 20 years old, of 1300 Sixth street northwest, on a charge of perjury involving the purchase of a drink of whiskey, the Washington Police Department lost another of its informers or undercover men.

Collins was arrested after he appeared before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and taken oath to the statement that he purchased whiskey at an address given him by Lieut. W. E. Holmes, of the Third Precinct.

The lieutenant early yesterday morning called Collins into his office and gave him instructions for making the "buy," according to Turnage. When he arrived at the house, Lieut. Holmes and Policemen S. F. Gravelly and R. F. McCarthy were seated within. They asserted that Collins knocked on the door and when a woman responded, asked to buy some whiskey. The woman replied that she had none and suggested that he must be mistaken, according to the police.

RIVAL DIVISIONS CLOSE IN MISSION FUND DRIVE

Men's Teams Lead Slightly in First Report of Collections.

LUNCHEON AT CITY CLUB

Keen rivalry developed between the men's and women's divisions for first place in the campaign of the Central Union Mission to raise $54,710 by June 11 to pay off the debt on its men's building, when a total of $9,060.50 was announced as collected in the first report from the men's division.

The challenge of Mrs. John S. Bennett, commander of the women's division, when the returns showed that the men's division, headed by Dr. Everett M. Ellison, had outdistanced her rivals by a scant $223. The women's group of teams, of which Dr. Viola E. Reese is captain, however, won the highest individual honors with a total of $1,264, followed closely by A. L. Baldwin's group of men workers with $1,361.

The total amount collected by the men's division was $4,474, compared with $4,251 for the women. The individual woman's team which reported the highest amount was that captained by Mrs. P. P. Altizer, with $465, while Harry Hoskinson's team of men collected $700.

Charles De Groot state that the first contributor to the campaign was William C. Bittling, 69-year-old convert of the Central Union Mission, who gave $100.00, with $1 for each of his five grandchildren.

BRIBE CASE APPEAL IS LOST BY BREWER

Court Refuses to Set Aside Two-Year Sentence Imposed on D. J. Shields.

Daniel J. Shields, brewer and politician of Johnston, Pa., who was alleged to have accepted a bribe of $10,000 a week for information concerning the investigation of Pennsylvania breweries by the prohibition enforcement unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, lost his appeal yesterday in the Court of Appeals from a sentence of two years in prison and a fine of $5,000 on a charge of bribery. The appellate court found no errors sufficient to justify granting a new trial.

Mrs. Della Evans Evans, former confidential clerk in the enforcement unit, was approached by Shields on behalf of the prohibition enforcement unit, and offered $10,000 a week to betray the trust inposed in her by the Government. Shields, who later was persuaded to work with special investigators who raided Shields' office in Johnston and found 60 confidential reports. Assistant District Attorney John Fidelity prosecuted Shields and argued against the appeal in the Court of Appeals. Shield's is now out on bond.

Bulgaria's Downfall

HENCE D'ESPERAY, WHO HAD BEEN UNABLE IN PREVIOUS YEARS TO MAKE ANY ADVANCE FROM SALONIKI—LED HIS ARMY OF GREEKS, SERBIANS, BRITISH AND ITALIANS AGAINST THE ENEMY ON SEPTEMBER 15, 1918.

THE BULGARIAN TROOPS OPPOSING HIM SUDDENLY LOST HEART—ALL THEIR GERMAN REGIMENTS AND OFFICERS WERE HASTILY LEAVING THEM FOR THE WESTERN FRONT. THERE WAS A MOMENTARY RESISTANCE, THEN A COMPLETE BREAK IN THE BULGARIAN RANKS. AS EARLY AS SEPT. 24, 1918 THE BULGARIAN GOVERNMENT SENT COMMISSIONERS TO SEEK PEACE, AND ON SEPT. 29 AN ARMISTICE WAS SIGNED—A FRANK AND UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER.
